FRANCE TO AGREE TO GERMAN REARMAMENT

LABOUR POLICY ON L.C.C.

Education Facilities Extended

London, July 10. A programme of educational development involving a total capital expenditure of £511,400 was approved by the London County Council this afternoon.

The Council also made a grant of £50,000 to the Foundling Hospital Appeal Fund, thereby securing the purchase of the last portion of the site which will remain an open space in perpetuity in the heart of London.—British Wireless.

NULLAH OUTRAGE SEQUEL

CHINESE CHARGED WITH MURDER

REMAND TILL MONDAY

As a sequel to the recent outrage in which five British children were thrown into the nullah near the lower Peak tram terminus, a Chinese has been charged at the Central Magistracy with the murder of Michael Pine, the lad who succumbed in hospital to his injuries.

The Chinese, who had been found at the scene of the outrage at the same time that four of the children were rescued, has been in hospital since. For a time, he was unable to make any coherent statement, and his condition, resulting from a broken thigh and other injuries, was such that he could not be formally charged.

He has, however, now sufficiently recovered to be able to appear in Court, before Mr. Macfayden.

Aged 28 years, and described as unemployed, the accused is Ng Loi-yuen, alias Ng Yick-lan, alias Ng Yick-san, formerly residing at the premises of the Swatow Drawn Work Co.

The charge against him was that he did wilfully murder Michael Pine on June 22.

On the application of Detective Inspector O'Donovan, the accused has been remanded on police custody until Monday, July 16.

TWO MORE CASES OF DOG-BITES

VICTIMS SENT TO HOSPITAL

Two further cases of dog-bite are reported by the police to-day, and in both instances the victims have gone to hospital for treatment.

Tony Wah-wing, of 24 Front Row, Wan-chai, reports that at 7.30 p.m. yesterday when he was passing a house in Wan-chai he was bitten by a white chow. He has since been admitted to the Government Civil Hospital, and the dog has been sent to Kennedy Town.

A woman named Ho Tai-hing, of 21 Kai Tak Bund, reports having been bitten by a dog belonging to Mr. Abbas. She has been admitted to Kowloon Hospital, and the dog has been sent to Matukok.

The Chinese woman who was admitted to Kowloon Hospital on Monday morning, believed to be suffering from hydrophobia died at mid-day yesterday.

SILVER MARKETS

STEADY IN LONDON & NEW YORK

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz have received the following cabled advices on the state of the silver markets:

London, July 10.—The market was steady after the fixing, on small Indian buying.

New York, July 10.—The silver market is virtually dead, but remains steady at the London parity. The Treasury continues inactive.

Contingent Upon Seven-Power Eastern European Pact

BARTHOU-SIMON AGREEMENT

IMPORTANT RESULTS OF LONDON TALKS

REVIVED HOPE FOR DISARMAMENT

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, July 11, 0.50 a.m.)

LONDON, JULY 11.

BEHIND THE USUAL CRYPTICALLY-WORDED OFFICIAL SUMMARY OF THE SIMON-BARTHOU CONVERSATIONS THERE LIES AN AGREEMENT FOR CO-RELATION OF POLICY WHICH IS BELIEVED TO REPRESENT THE MOST IMPORTANT CONTRIBUTION TO THE STABILISATION OF THE EUROPEAN SITUATION SINCE THE LOCARNO PACT.

The possibility of important French concessions to Germany in the field of armaments, largely bridging the points is now envisaged.

Plans have been formed for the conclusion of a Seven-Power Pact in Eastern Europe, to which Great Britain will not be expected to append her signature, but which will depend upon the readiness of Germany to enter into it.

BRITAIN'S BENEVOLENT NEUTRALITY

Authoritative information gleaned after M. Barthou's departure for Paris leaves little doubt that the Anglo-French conversations may be regarded as among the most important moves made since the war for the consolidation of European peace.

There is a new hope for a disarmament convention, without calling for additional commitments by Britain.

It is learned from the most reliable sources that the outstanding results of the talks are:

FRANCO-SOVIET SCHEME.

Britain has agreed to regard with benevolent neutrality the Franco-Soviet scheme for a Seven-Powers Eastern European Pact of Mutual Assistance, including Germany.

France, on her part, has intimated her willingness and readiness to grant important armistice concessions to Germany, legalising reasonable German rearmament, provided that Germany is prepared to join the proposed Eastern European Pact of Mutual Assistance.

OFFICIAL COMMUNIQUE.

London, July 10. The French Foreign Minister, M. Barthou, left London for Paris this afternoon at the conclusion of his visit to British Ministers.

A communiqué issued from the Foreign Office says: "Friendly conversations between British and

RUSSIAN KILLED IN SHANGHAI

NO NEW PLEDGES.

London, July 11. The communiques of the Anglo-French talk are as achromatic as usual and approaches to British official quarters have not revealed any more.

Though M. Barthou declares himself as quite happy at his reception in London, it seems that the British attitude towards French aspirations can be summed up in the neat phrase employed by Le Journal—"inert and passive benevolence."

Britain has given no new pledges.

Shanghai in the Heat Wave—Top—Fortunate idle enjoy dip in Hongkong Swimming Pool.

Thousands of people chose this method of finding relief from the sun's scorching rays.

Inset—A coolie takes a noon day siesta in an endeavour to forget about the heat.

HEAT WAVE RETURNS

SWELTERS

CHINESE AND THE RAIN GODS

Shanghai, July 11. Disastrous failure of all crops in the great provinces of Chekiang and Kiangsu seems certain unless the drought is soon broken.

Petitions have been sent to the Mayor of Greater Shanghai and to the provincial authorities by a group of prominent and influential Chinese urging them to forbid the slaughter of domestic cattle for one week to appease the rain gods.

The heat wave has again swept back to the Shanghai area and for hundreds of miles around, after a short spell of comparatively milder weather, when the temperature dropped to below a hundred.

The relief was only short, however, and purely relative. No rain has fallen; it was just not quite so blindingly hot as it was.

Yesterday, however, the mercury again climbed and 101.8° were registered in Shanghai.

The farmers of Chekiang and Kiangsu are constantly praying for rain to save their crops.—Reuter.

RICE LOOTING IN CHEKIANG

HANGZHOU, JULY 11.

The persistence of the drought in Chekiang has forced market prices to forbidding height. As a consequence, an outbreak of rice looting by coolies occurred at Chang'an, a town to the north-east of Hangzhou.

At Hangzhou, hundreds of people are queuing up outside the offices of charitable organisations, which sell rice to them at a cheaper price.—Central News.

CHIHLI FLOODS

YUNGTINGHO RISES

17 FEET

Peking, July 11.

Northern Chihi and places west of Peking are jeopardised by flooding, following incessant rains.

Some of the low-lying areas are many feet under water, and much damage has been done to property and crops.

The Yungtingho, to the west of Peking rose by seventeen feet on Monday, but receded about five feet yesterday afternoon.

LITHUANIAN AMNESTY

Valdemaras Remains In Prison

Kovno, July 10.

President Smetona to-day granted an amnesty to sixty-eight young officers who participated in the attempt at a coup d'état on June 7.

The ringleader of the affair, M. Vaidemaras, remains in prison.—Reuter.

CANARY IS. REVOLT

FIVE SENTENCED TO DEATH

VILLAGERS TRIED BY MILITARY

Tenerife, July 10.

The serious outbreak in the Canary Islands last year when a revolutionary strike occurred in a village on one of the islands, the Spanish authorities being defied for some considerable time, had a sequel to-day.

Five of the alleged ring-leaders in the revolt were found guilty by court-martial and sentence of death was passed.

Ten other men of the village, who were also tried by the same court, were sentenced to terms of imprisonment, varying from one to twenty years.

The sentences are subject to confirmation by the Madrid Government.

It may be recalled that two civil guards were killed by the islanders in the course of the disturbances.—Reuter.

RUSSO-JAPANESE RELATIONS

MILITARY MEASURES IN MANCHURIA

Harbin, July 11.

It is reliably learned that 12,000 Chinese labourers recruited inside the Great Wall have been sent to the north-western Manchurian border, assigned to work on the construction of highways, trenches and other military defence works along the border near Manchuria.

Japanese garrison forces at Manchuli and Chalahor have been increased.

According to a Soviet report, a group of White Russians were recently discovered engaged in spying for the Japanese at Khabarovsk. The latest developments indicate that Russo-Japanese relations are strained.—General News.

VIRTUAL END OF O.G.P.U.

"HOME SECRETARY" IN RUSSIA

YOUNG OFFICIAL APPOINTED

Moscow, July 10.

An important change in internal administration in Soviet Russia was finally authorised to-day.

A decree has been issued laying down the composition of the new Commissariat for Home Affairs, which is taking over the extraordinary judicial functions of O.G.P.U., the secret police.

The new Home Secretary will also be responsible for safeguarding revolutionary order and the security of the State, the guarding of public property and of the frontier, and for the registration of the civil acts of the State.

The Judicial Collegium of the O.G.P.U., which until now has been empowered to sentence an accused to be shot without an open trial is now dissolved.

OPEN TRIALS

Crimes affecting the security of the State will be tried in the Supreme Court.

Genrich Yagoda, a rising young official, has been appointed first People's Commissar for Home Affairs.

Settlement of this appointment is still pending putting the proposal into operation.

It is stated that the decree does not imply that the O.G.P.U. has been disbanded, but that the Soviet Government feels that its power being established, a milder means of protecting the State is possible.—Reuter.

YAGODA'S PROMOTION

An exclusive United Press cable states that M. Yagoda was formerly assistant Chief of the OGPU.

The OGPU will be completely reorganised and its organisation will become part of the newly-established Department of Internal Affairs.

KIPPAX ILLNESS

CARRIER OF DIPHTHERIA GERM

London, July 10. It is learned that Alan Kippax has been ascertained to be a carrier of the diphtheria germ and is being kept at Manchester under medical observation.

The swab taken of Chipperfield's throat was not definitely negative and he too is in hospital in Manchester.

The remainder of the team proceeded to Sheffield for the match against Yorkshire.—British Wireless.

The U.S. gunboat Argus left Hongkong yesterday afternoon for Canton.

CHAPTER XLVIII

The maples show red banners against a sky of heavenly blue. The air was crisp and bracing here under the old trees with a boy of four spread-eagled in a sand pile and two or three white-capped workmen loitering among the shavings.

Two women came out of the house and stood on the porch. One was slight, with flyaway dark curl and an apricot flush on her cheek. The other had crisp red hair under her white felt hat. She was smiling.

"I think you've done wonders to the place," she said eagerly. "Who would have thought of making that old barn into a studio? It's perfect."

"The school will be open next week," said the dark-haired one with animation. "I have two helpers already. Of course it's an experiment so we can't promise much in the way of money. We have three groups. The Juniors, from 18 months to two and a half; and the runabouts who can go from that to four. (David is in that.) And then the seniors. They're the real kindergartners, of course—the average pre-school children. Why don't you come in?"

"Oh, I'd love to, Gypsy," cried Sue Gibson. "I wonder if I could? I don't know a thing about the work but I was wondering what on earth I do with myself this winter. Of course while Hunt and I were in Mexico I was busy—it was fascinating. I learned Spanish. I even took a course in archaeology, although half the time I didn't know what Professor de Mores was talking about. But it was good practice."

"Well, talk it over with Hunt anyway," said Gypsy, encouraging. "You'll be in an apartment, so if you don't go in for golf or bridge or something you'll have time on your hands."

"Plenty of that," said Sue soberly. "Gypsy, he really is a pet—Davy, I mean. You don't know how I envy you!"

"He's sweet." The dark-haired young woman's eyes shone. "But do you know, if I could have been out here that first year instead of in an apartment everything would have been different. I used to think I would go crazy, cooped up there in the city, with nothing to look out at—nothing to do, really, although Davy's needs kept me busy enough. That's the trouble with the first years of marriage," she mused. "You're getting used to an entirely different kind of life—no one really prepares you for it. Somehow you have a feeling that it's just going to be a continuation of the parties and showers everyone has been giving for you. And then suddenly you're cook and chambermaid and nurse, and you don't know what it's all about."

"You didn't seem to have any bump the first year, though," Sue said, pulling her white gloves on. "You and Tom always got on beautifully."

"Didn't I, thought?" Gypsy's eyes crinkled remissively. "Well, I was pretty silly and half-baked, I can tell you. I used to go to Lila's to a party and come home and be discontented for a week. Tom was sweet. He knew it was bad for me but he didn't say a word. Then when he was working hard, trying desperately to get a foothold in the office, I'd crab if he were kept late. I'd be horrid and suspicious and jealous. Don't be jealous, Sue," she interrupted herself to say. "It spoils everything. Half the time it's something manufactured out of your own head. If I'd had some work that interested me—or if I had been able to get away from the baby often, keep my brains dusted off, I never would have been like that. That's what we hope to do for the girls around here. They won't have to worry about their children four mornings a week. We're keeping the fee down so that almost anyone can afford it. And we're going to have lots of fun."

"How did you happen to find this place?" Sue wanted to know, leading the way to her little car, parked under the big sugar maple which was already shedding its autumn effulgence all over the driveway.

"Well, we were in the market. I don't know whether I ever told you—the cabin at Wading Hollow burned down. That village idiot who frightened me out of my wife gaggingly.

"Doesn't like to be babied," Gypsy said inaudibly.

"I'm goin' to build a house myself," the boy boasted. "Better'n the men."

"Of course you are," Gypsy surveyed him with pride. "Call me when you've finished. I want to see."

The child strutted away, proud and zealous.

Sue lingered, her hand fumbling for the ignition key. "I declare I wish I hadn't promised to go to Elsie, Wilbur's tea," she said. "I'd like to stop here all afternoon. We haven't talked things out. There are dozens of people I want to know about. By the way, what ever became of Lila Bliss?"

The last I heard of her she was cutting a great swath abroad."

Gypsy shook her head. "Poor Lila! She felt miserable about being mixed up in that English divorce case. It wasn't in the least her fault."

"Well, maybe not," observed Sue. "You always had a soft spot for her. I must say I couldn't see her ever."

"She was undisciplined—we all were," Gypsy defended. Sue burst out laughing. "You talk a grey-beard, my dear. You must be all of 27."

"I've learned a lot," Gypsy told her soberly. "I've learned to keep quiet and smile when I feel like flying into a temper. I've had to learn lots, for David's sake. That's one thing motherhood teaches you—self-control."

"Well, you're an angel and I love you. Look for me some day next week," Sue flung back as she started the car. The last glimpse she had of Gypsy was a dark blue figure silhouetted against the clear haze of the September sky, as she argued tempestuously with a carpenter. Was it possible, Sue thought, driving off, that she had ever been jealous of her friend? Ridiculous and yet true. She had suffered torments over it. Now Hunt was hers. Gypsy had been married five whole years. They were all getting staid and settled. No more flurries . . . no heart-breaks . . .

Marriage changes us all, Sue thought. Some for the worse (there was Lila), and some for the better.

In the candlelight, with Clytie's second daughter, Annie, coming to and fro with hot food in the blue dishes, Gypsy told Tom about Sue's visit. Gypsy had changed her slacks and jersey for an organdie frock stripped and plaid in pale green. Her lovely neck and shoulders were bare. The old dining room with its white panelled

FULL ACCORD

BRITAIN AND FRANCE IN AGREEMENT

London, July 10.
Mr. Barthou, and the other French delegates left for Paris at 4.30 p.m. to-day.

"We have examined, with mutual good faith, all questions with a common interest, and have ascertained that we are in accord as far as the European situation is concerned," stated M. Barthou, when interviewed.

"The result of my journey has filled me with sincere joy," he added.—United Press.

Naval Aspects.

London, July 10.
The Foreign Office communiqué issued after the Simon-Barthou talks to-day lays stress on the "particularly cordial character of the conversations."

Following the afternoon meeting at the Admiralty, it is reliably stated that M. Pietri, French Navy Minister, has decided to remain in London for several days after M. Barthou's departure on Thursday. This news is interpreted as an indication that M. Pietri and Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell are determined to explore further the possibility of preparing for the naval conference, regardless of the difficulties presented by the Italian projects for building two 35,000-ton battleships.—United Press.

NAVAL PARLEY.

Appointment Of Japanese Technical Delegate.

London, July 10.
The Japanese Minister of Maritime has announced the appointment of Captain Iwashita as Japanese delegate to the preliminary naval conversations in London. He leaves Tokyo on July 12, and will be in a position to give all necessary advice on technical matters, when the Anglo-Japanese exchange of views takes place.

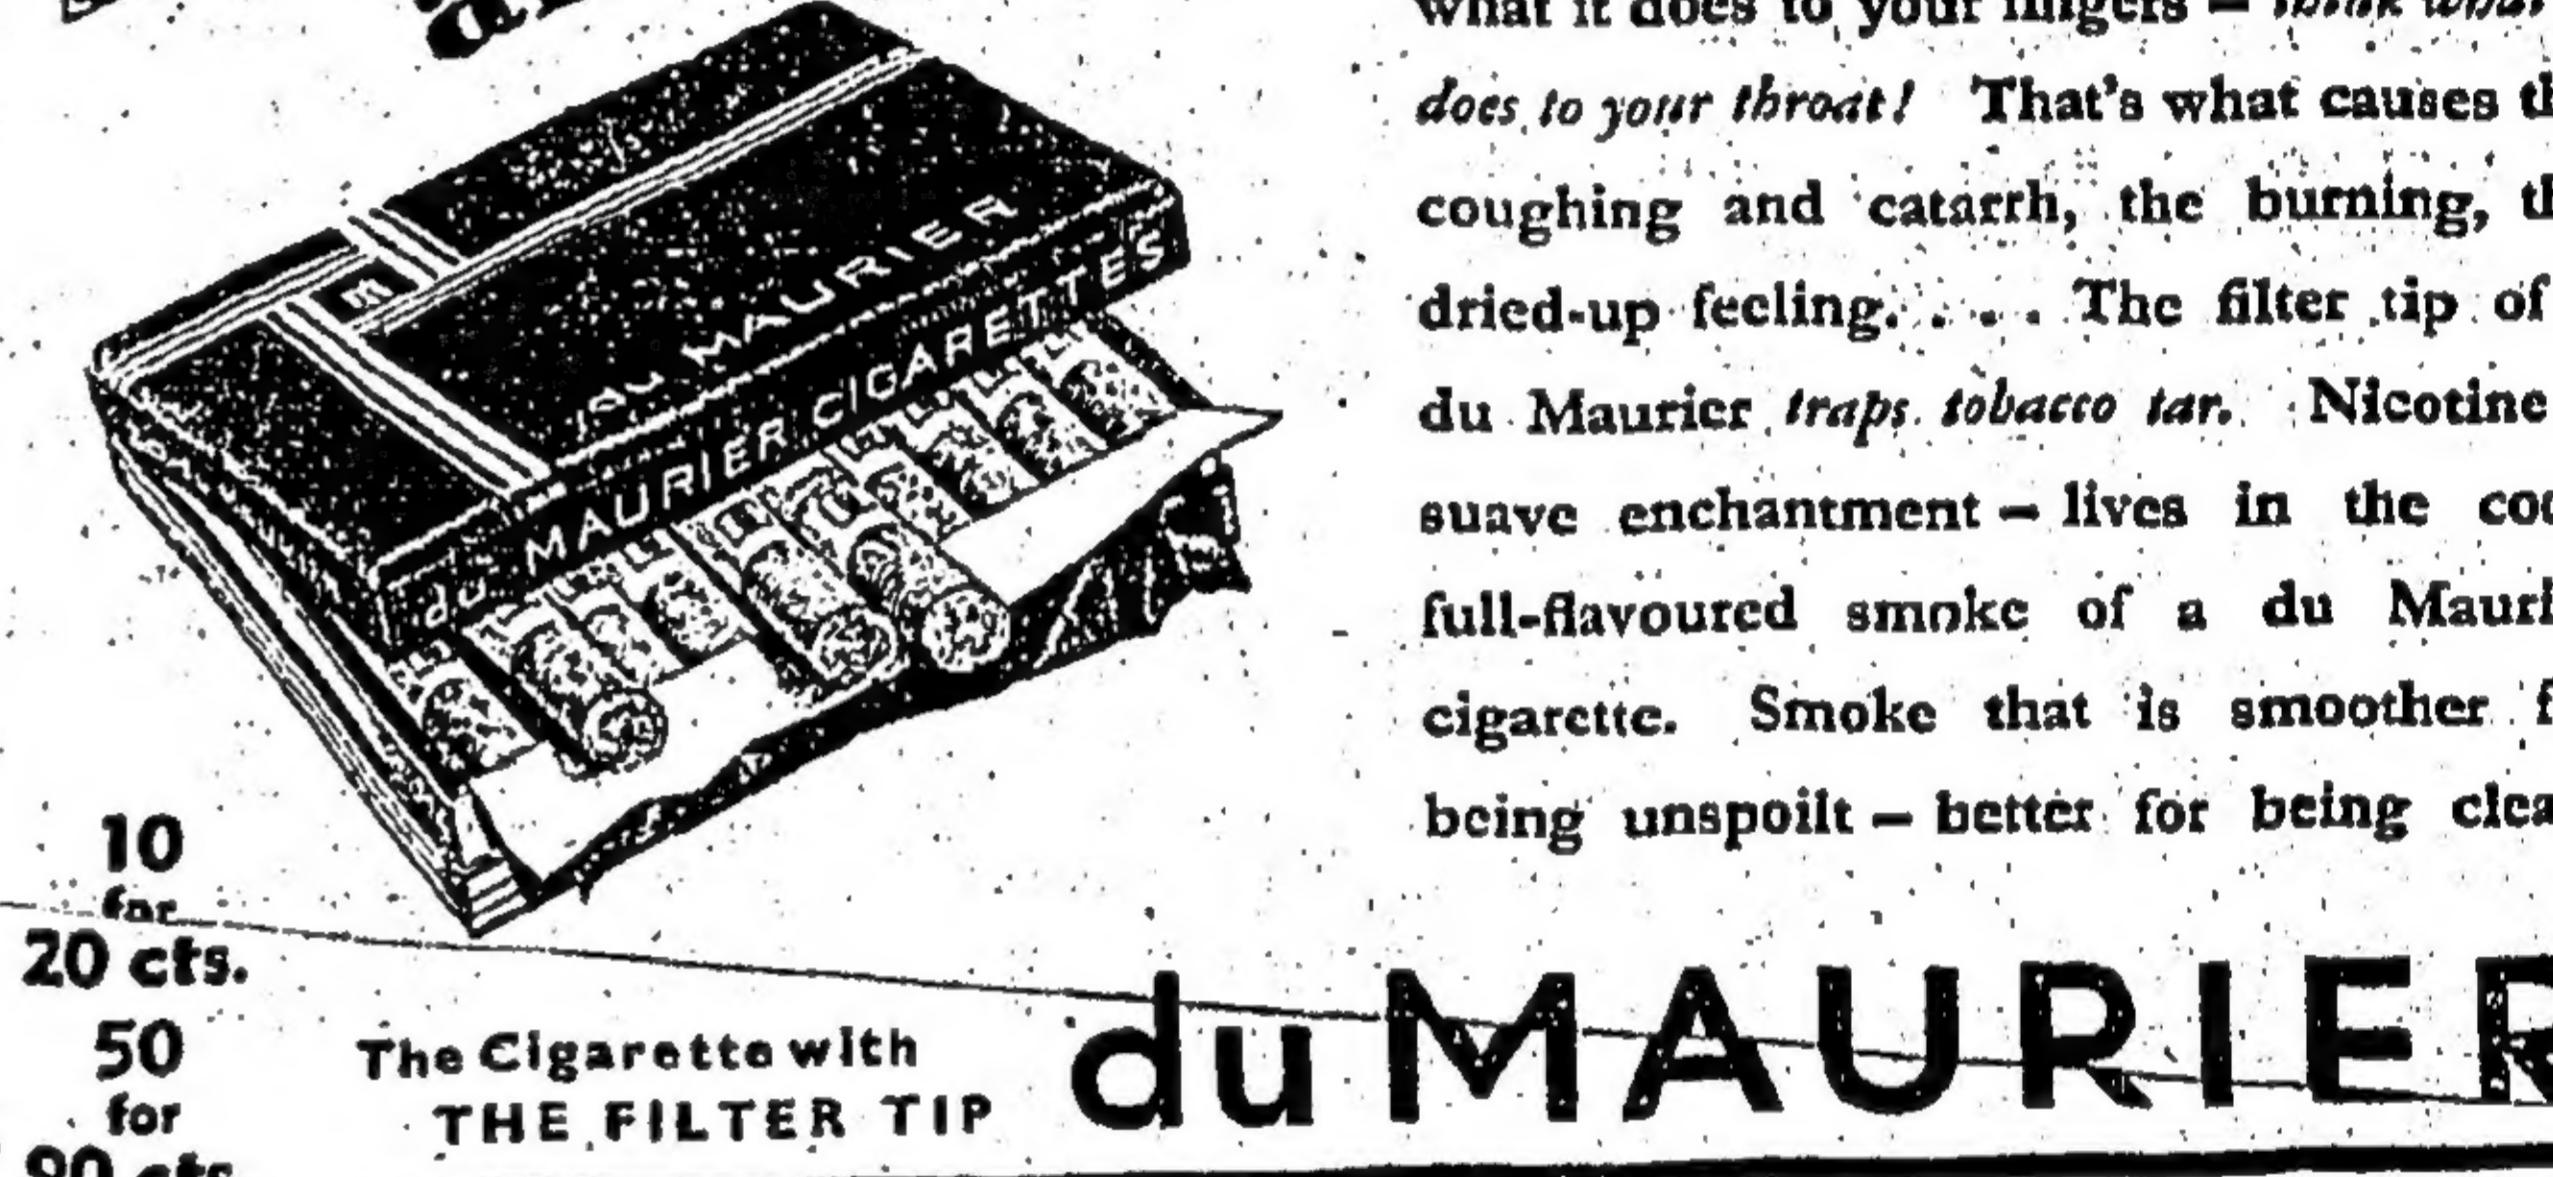

Meanwhile, the Japanese Embassy is being kept in close touch with the discussion of matters relating to procedure.—British Wireless.

In proposing a vote of thanks to the speaker, the Hon. Sir William Shenton said he thought the fact that in at least ten categories the exports from Hongkong to Singapore have materially increased recently.

Rotarian T. B. Wilson presided, and the following guests were welcomed: Messrs. V. K. Kwong, A. Stigter, W. F. Arnd, R. E. Francis, A. L. Bruzel, de Roux, F. H. Losaby, de Maitre and M. Deveaux.

PEAK TRAMWAY EXTENSION

There is general agreement amongst regular patrons of the Peak tramway service with the view expressed by the Chairman of the operating company, at its recent annual meeting, that if permission can be secured and the necessary land acquired, the line should be extended down to Queen's Road. So much is evident from the opinions expressed in our evening contemporary by various residents who have been approached on the subject. The difficulty of the extension is beyond question, but, as the Chairman of the Company has pointed out, the land required is owned by the military authorities, and negotiations to acquire it have so far been unsuccessful. From the practical standpoint, even assuming willingness on the part of the War Department to surrender the land needed for the extension, there is the question of cost to be faced. So far, there has been no indication of how much money would be required to cover the purchase of the land and the carrying out of the scheme, but obviously it would be considerable. The question naturally arises whether there would be any prospect of the Company being able to recoup itself for the heavy expenditure involved. Already, the effects of motor competition are being felt, and when the new motor road to Maggazine Gap is opened up, as it will be within a few months, this factor will be even further emphasised. Granting the desirability of bringing the terminus nearer to the centre of the town, the question, so far as the Company is concerned, resolves itself into the most economical method of making the extension. Actually, the problem is not one of great magnitude; it involves the devising of an expeditious means of covering the three hundred yards of road between the existing terminus and the down-town level. The simplest and least costly method would appear to be the provision of a feeder service by the Company. This could be done by utilising motor buses for the purpose. The great advantage of this plan would be that the terminus could, in effect, be brought even nearer still to the foot of Garden Road. Buses, operating, say, from Chater Road, could provide a service fitting in with the tramway timetable. To residents and tourists alike, such a feeder service would be a marked improvement on existing conditions and would be even more convenient than an extension of the tramway down to Queen's Road. It could possibly be maintained on the basis of a five-cent bus fare from the town to the tramway.

NOTES OF THE DAY

STRIKE VIOLENCE

When strikes boil over into pitched street warfare of the kind seen recently in the United States, in Toledo, Minneapolis and San Francisco, beyond doubt they cease to rank as industrial disputes and come perilously close to class war. The violence of San Francisco has a significance far more weighty than is involved in an argument between workers and employers. It is futile, that is, to try and understand the troubles by discussing the specific demands that the longshoremen are making and the refusal of the employers to negotiate except upon their own terms. Fighting, as serious as that witnessed last week has a deeper reason than disagreement about conditions of employment.

PHYSIC SCAR

Something is on the workers' minds—something that makes them angry and reckless enough to risk policemen's clubs, tear gas, and national guardsmen's bullets. No matter how much we may deplore the results, it would be foolish if no attempt was made to find out just what it is that is wrong. It seems highly probable that basically the trouble comes from deep discontent with the way the recovery programme is working out. The United States is just emerging from a period of extreme hardship. All have suffered during the depression, but few have had quite such a thin time of it as the wage-earner. It has left him with what might be called a psychic scar that will be a long time healing.

SAME OLD WAY

Bearing that scar, the worker makes ready for the new deal and finds that in many cases it is being played with the same old cards, in the same old way. Fine words about human rights have been said at Washington, but they haven't been put into effect. There are still employers who look back to Homestead for lessons in the way to handle labour troubles. There are still officials who forget that they are representative of all residents in a State and are not entitled to take sides in an industrial dispute. And Washington still postpones the job of formulating a definite and clear-cut labour policy. All this, of course, does not excuse the violence. It does not bring dead men back to life, or make it right to toss bricks at policemen and troopers. But it does help in understanding and it is vital that we get such understanding.

FORCE—OR REASON?

Then again, those American citizens who like Socialism or class warfare least should be most concerned about the tear-gas method of combatting them. One of the best ways of creating bitter feelings, intensifying opposition to the employers are the tear-gas manners of City and State authorities. In the deplorable events of the past few months, America has been far too speedy in resort to counter-violence of an extreme type and almost every incident has been aggravated. The spirit of these times reflects, it would seem, an attitude that has been all too common in political thinking by the privileged and those placed in authority—conveniently forgetting who placed them in their positions. It is the same attitude that preserves the use of force in settling differences between nations, the old, old belief that force is an adequate substitute for reason.

PARENTS AND MOVIES

Where lies the responsibility when children see undesirable motion pictures? The responsibility of the producer is too obvious to need discussion—but what measure of it belongs to all parents? Some are only too aware of their responsibility, but feel quite unable to cope with the problem. The argument presents itself in this light: "All neighbourhood boys and girls go to the pictures continually, so how can I possibly keep Tommy at home?" This may seem difficult, but where the programme is undesirable it is an inexcusable duty. That is partly the spirit behind the "League of Decency" organised by the churches in the United States, which has already made the film industry think. Nevertheless, a movement of Blue Stockings is obviously liable to become a confirmed nuisance and an imposition. When films for adults are in question, the individual judgment of suitability is as sound as any, in the long run.

We offer this suggestion as a constructive contribution to the discussion now proceeding, and as one which, whilst catering to public needs, would not involve the Company in heavy capital outlay.

BACK INTO THE DOGFIGHT

By VISCOUNT SNOWDEN

The Very Idea!

RINGING WET

By George

THE telephone hoax is having its repercussions.

Having heard practically every possible excuse from the girl for being late, we thought we had her cornered last night when she turned up 20 minutes past the appointed hour.

"Aint I prompt?" she smiled, "we should mention that the girl is not very strong on grammar."

"No you aint," we said darkly. "Only 20 minutes late."

"Why George, you phoned up to say you couldn't get here till 7.20 p.m."

A fierce argument followed which only the theory of the telephone hoax prevented from becoming a fight.

Anyway we now have a little password, so we shall either find the hoaxer or she will have to find a new excuse.

And there has been other trouble too.

The office rang us up just as we were going off for a night swimming picnic.

"Is that you, George? Well you'll have to come to the office and do some work. When can you get over?"

"Sorry. Can't be helped. I should save that for The Very Idea."

"I don't believe I'm wanted at all. It's a joke."

"Well you better laugh it off in the office or explain to the Old Man in the morning."

"I'm not coming over. It's a hoax."

And therupon we rang off and trotted away.

Came the dawn . . .

We have just left the Old Man still only partly convinced. Nowadays we don't want to hear telephone ring.

There is a chit on our desk to the effect that Wilson has rung up inviting us to dinner.

We tear it up and throw it into the waste paper basket.

Fortunately there are some things that are past belief.

THE HORSE.

(Extracts From Little Adn's Exercise Book)

The horse.

The horse is a noble animal and has been called man's best friend ever since (or because) of the Garden of Eden (though teacher says it was a snake what done the trick and not the apple).

Some horses are built for speed but others only look that way.

Teacher says that racing is a wicked sport and that it hurts the horse's feelings when money is placed on its chances of winning. The horse feels that the game is the thing and will often slow down behind the other horses so as to have the fun of trying to catch them up.

If it fails to do so it will take its defeat in a sporting manner and smile bravely at the owner, its large brown eyes will seem to say: Never mind, master, I am not discouraged.

The admirable thing about a horse is that it never gives up. If it is entered in a long race it insists on finishing the course if it takes half an hour longer to do it.

The horse can easily be distinguished from the owner as the latter is invariably seen with a cigar.

Another motorist has reported that his "Baby" has been kidnapped and long grass in the vicinity is being diligently thrashed by the police in the hope of solving the mystery.

The car was driven away from Statue Square and it is believed that violence must have been used as the owner indignantly declared to us this morning that nothing short of a gallon of milk would induce it to follow a stranger. A certain amount of less majestic attaches to the crime as the car was parked under the statue of Queen Victoria.

A wit who suggested that the pockets of the statues be searched was curiously informed by the I.G.P. that he was not amused. However he left a bottle of milk on the baby's parking site and examined the statues next morning when the milk had disappeared without the return of the truant.

Suggestions have been made to prevent a repetition of these wholesale removals, either by taking off the wheels of the car and taking them home or letting parked cars to street sleepers at a nominal fee.

Japan's Challenge

BRITISH COTTON LOOM FIGURES

London, July 10.

The total number of world cotton looms at the end of 1933 shows little change as compared with 1930, the decrease being 28,800.

The European total is 67,645 lower mainly as the result of a decrease of 104,935 in Great Britain.

There has also been a reduction of 85,322 looms in the United States, but increases are reported in Russia, Japan, China and India.

The figures have been made available in the second International cotton loom census issued by the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners.

The total number of looms in place throughout the world is estimated to be 3,130,000, which are distributed as follows:

Britain,	588,000
Japan	277,000
India,	190,000
U.S.A.,	614,000

These compare with 3,169,000 looms in 1930, with Great Britain's 693,000, India, 180,000, Japan, 188,000 and America, 690,000.

The proportion of automatic machinery looms in Europe seems to be increasing with remarkable steadiness, there being 13,994 in Great Britain, as compared with 11,810 three years ago. An increase is also shown in Japan from 15,000 to 21,000, but the United States shows a decline.—Reuter.

French Ministers, which were concluded at the Foreign Office this morning, have made it possible for the two Governments clearly to appreciate their respective points of view on the questions under discussion.

These questions have included the French proposals for additional mutual security in Eastern Europe, the future of the Disarmament Conference and preparation for the Naval Conference of 1936.

"In connection with this last point Monsieur Peltre will remain in London for a few days longer."

LUNCH WITH MR. BALDWIN.

This morning's conversations lasted two and a half hours and at their conclusion, the two French Ministers, accompanied by Sir John Simon, crossed over to No. 11 Downing Street to take luncheon with Mr. Stanley Baldwin.

In the afternoon, the naval conversations were continued at the Foreign Office between M. Peltre and Sir John Simon and Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell.—British Wireless.

NEWFOUNDLAND AFFAIRS

DEVELOPMENT PLANS OUTLINED

London, July 10.

Answering a Parliamentary question regarding the economic situation in Newfoundland, the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, said the Commission of Government had already made considerable progress with development schemes in Newfoundland and Labrador, and authority had recently been given for a special development expenditure of £1,300,000, to be financed by long-term loans from the Colonial Development Fund.

This expenditure would be devoted to the building of fishing vessels for purchase by fishermen on the instalment plan, to road construction with a view to facilitating agricultural settlement, and to development of a harbour at Port au Basques, the railway terminus on the west coast.—British Wireless.

Leaving the Colony on the Empress of Russia on Friday, are Mrs. G. Findson, Mr. R. E. Frost, who is a member of the staff of the Asiatic Petroleum Co. in Carlton, and his wife, Miss H. D. Sawyer, headmistress of the Diocesan Girls' School and Miss E. S. Atkins, headmistress of St. Stephen's Girls' College.

U.S. PRODUCTION ESTIMATES

New York, July 10.

A preliminary estimate by the U.S. Government of U.S.A. wheat production amounts to 48,000,000 bushels, as compared with 511,304,000 bushels in 1933.

Corn production was estimated at 2,113,000,000 bushels as compared with 2,330,237,000 in 1933. These estimates are considered very bullish.—Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

SURGEON'S ART GIVES NEW FACE

BUFFALO FIGHTS CROCODILE

Thrilling Struggle In North Australia

Mr. Harrison Ross who has just returned to civilisation at Mt Isa, Queensland, after big game shooting in Northern Australia, described to Austral News a unique fight which he saw on the Adelaide River between a crocodile and several buffaloes.

With an aboriginal boy he was taking cover about sunrise when a herd of buffaloes appeared making for the water. "I saw great bulls," he said, "with a horn spread of fully eight to ten feet."

The herd had watered and had left the river, and moved to some little distance, excepting a cow and a calf, when suddenly there was a terrific commotion on the bank of the river. Then the startled traveller saw a huge crocodile, with its jaws fast to the cow's head and making frantic efforts to drag the beast into the river.

While the unusual battle raged in a tree over Mr. Ross's head, became panic-stricken, lost his grip and fell on top of Mr. Ross, whose rifle immediately went off. Owing to the din caused by the bellowing herd, the muffled bellow of the desperate cow, and the smashing of timber, the report was apparently unnoticed. In order to obtain a clearer vision of the battle Mr. Ross climbed to the perch which had been vacated by the aboriginal, where he had an uninterrupted view of the struggle.

The buffalo calf was swept into the water with one flick of the crocodile's vicious tail, and a second crocodile promptly seized it, made off down stream, and disappeared.

Meanwhile the herd of buffaloes, which were ranging some 50 yards away, were bellowing madly, when like an arrow, an old bull, weighing close on a ton, rushed with lowered head to the cow's rescue. A struggle ensued, which, said Mr. Ross, "is almost unbelievable. The big bull made strenuous efforts to get his great cumbersome six-foot-spread of horns under the crocodile, but the latter did not relax his grip one fraction. Again, and again the valiant old bull charged, until one of his horns hung loose. Several other bulls joined in the fight and eventually the crocodile, sore from the heavy punishment, loosened his grip, and crawled into the river."

Two days later Mr. Ross shot the crocodile. It was 18 feet long, and its body bore the marks of the battle it had lost.

Rubber Prices

FAVOURABLE OUTLOOK FOR COMMODITY

London, July 10.

The strength of the price of rubber and rubber shares has rather mystified some quarters, who expected a recession in view of the statistical position and the seasonal falling off of consumption.

It seems that the support is forthcoming in anticipation of the definite results, which are expected at the end of the year. Therefore, it is anticipated by some circles that the market will gather fresh strength as the year progresses.

It is pointed out that the moderate restriction operating during the next few months will coincide with the reasonable slackening of manufacturing demand.

Advices from Amsterdam state that rumours that the natives are continuing to tap to the fullest extent have been officially denied by the Home Office.

The exports of native rubber from the Dutch East Indies for April amounted to 21,000 tons, for May 27,000 tons, and a further 2,000 tons have been placed under the control of the Customs, while stocks are outside the restriction scheme.

During June the native exports from the entire Dutch East Indies amounted to 16,000, which is most satisfactory.

If no further rise in the price occurs, the reduction of exports to the basic quota may soon be expected. Reuter.

Warsaw, July 10.

The Minister for the Interior has issued a decree ordering the dissolution of the Radical Right Wing organization, "The National Radical Party," which is a Fascist group.

Setting forth the grounds for the dissolution, the decree states that the organisation has been spreading racial hatred, class war and leading in street fighting.

The dissolution has already begun in Warsaw, where the Party's headquarters have been placed under seal.

The Party has 30,000 members, mainly youths, and had a militia modelled on the German Brown Shirts.—United Press.

LANCASHIRE CREEPING UP ON SUSSEX

LEADERS HELD TO A DRAW BY ESSEX: NOTTS WIN

London, July 10. Although Sussex were held to a draw and Lancashire gained a substantial win against Northants, there has been no change in the leadership of the county championship.

Yorkshire dropped further back thanks to a first innings defeat by Surrey, and Kent, who were up to the beginning of last week in third position, found themselves half way down the table as a result of losing further points.

With hard and dry wicket the general experience, the bat beat the ball in the majority of games, and three encounters were left without any definite result.

Gloucester and Lancashire both won handsomely against weak teams, Northants added further to their miserable record by losing by an innings to the Red Rose.

In this match Tyldesley was the outstanding batsman, compiling 122, allowing Lancashire to aggregate 409.

Against the deliverus of Sibbles and Parkinson (the latter a comparatively "unknown" player) Northants could make no sort of a show, and were rapidly disposed of for a total of 941. In two innings.

SMART GLOUCESTER WIN.

Glocester scored a smart victory against Glamorgan. They were 103 runs behind on the first innings, but the Welshmen collapsed in their second innings, leaving Gloucester to score 237 to win. These were obtained for the loss of three wickets.

Sussex completely outplayed Warwick to win by ten wickets, despite some fine batting by Santall, who in the losers' first knock scored 130, and followed this up with an 81.

The veteran, Philip Mead again enjoyed himself at the expense of Kent, hitting up 108. He received good support from Kennedy (130) and Hampshire finally totalled 528.

Kent made a bold reply, and thanks largely to Frank Woolley (122) saved the follow-on, out time hitting up 212 for 6.

TWELVE HUNDRED RUNS.

No less than twelve hundred runs were scored in the Sussex v Essex match, and a conclusive result was out of the question. Sussex took first innings points, due to a big score of 461 for 6 declared. Chief run-scorers were A. Melville (95) and John Parks (93).

Essex responded well with 323 and forced Sussex to bat again. They hit up 215 for 3 and then declared, but Essex easily saved the game, playing out time by compiling 204 for six wickets.

Facing a score of 372, Surrey did well to beat Yorkshire on the first innings. Mitchell batted brilliantly for the champions to score 181, while Gover's figures of 6 for 102 expressed a remarkable piece of bowling.

An innings of 123 by Watt, and substantial contributions by several other players saw Surrey aggregate 465 in reply, and they then dismissed Yorkshire for 277 in their return to the crease.

Surrey did not have an altogether easy time in their last innings, and at the close had lost four wickets for 46 runs.—Reuter.

LEAGUE OFFERS TO LARWOOD

Australia Rings Him Up For News.

And still they grow—these stories about Larwood, the Notts and England express bowler.

The latest is that a leading Lancashire League Club was to offer him £40 a week to play for them, with £10 a week in the winter; and that this season might be his last in first-class cricket.

The £40-a-week story was treated as a joke by Lancashire League officials.

It is, however, a fact that offers have been made to Larwood to play in League cricket.

Larwood admitted this to a press correspondent.

But he added that he had not accepted any offer and was not likely to do so.

So much interest is being taken in Larwood that he was run up from Australia at 6.30 in the morning and asked for an interview. He refused to say a word.

Nanking, July 6. China's participation in the World Olympics to be held at Berlin, 1936, was decided on at a meeting of the Physical Education Committee of the Ministry of Education yesterday. The National Amateur Athletic Federation will be entrusted with the duty of making arrangements.

It was also decided that the Ministry of Education be requested to order the various Provincial Departments and Municipal Bureaux of Education to introduce physical culture courses in the normal schools. The standard of the curriculum will be announced at an early date.

Poling, Tsinan, Tsingtao, Hankow, Chongshan, Nanking, Hangchow, Shanghai, Canton, Nanning, and Kueihsien were designated as experimental centres for the enforcement of courses in Chinese boxing, the Provincial and Municipal education authorities to direct the schools to carry out the experiment.

Provisional regulations governing the establishment of public recreation grounds were adopted and will be submitted to the Ministry for enforcement.

The establishment of recreation grounds for children and the promotion of physical education among the masses with the assistance of the police and the military were also discussed.

Young Frisco Invading Japan

QUEST BY ORIENT CHAMPION.

Young Frisco, welterweight champion of the Orient and Young Tarley, contender for feather-weight honours, with their manager, Vicenzo Castro sailed from Manila last week for a series of two fights each in Zamboanga preparatory to an invasion of Japan where Frisco will meet Tony Gora and Tarley takes on Young Tommy's conqueror.

From Japan Castro and his ambitious fistucers will proceed to Australia. And if their invasion proves successful they will continue on to the United States according to manager Vic Castro.

The departure of Young Frisco and Young Tarley will be sadly missed by local fans as both these boys have made a name for themselves hereabouts. Frisco, it should be remembered, stepped into the limelight when he decisively whipped Young Ignacio Fernandez to annex the welter crown late last year. He successfully defended his title by knocking out Fighting Nelson and Leo Bruno in succession. Frisco is only 18 years old and great things are ahead for him.

Tarley is the logical contender for the feather title. Scores of fight fans believe this boy is the uncrowned king in the feather-weight division. Among Tarley's victims have been Ventura Marquez, Rush Binyon whom he kayed in 3 rounds, Joe Mosquindao, Joe Parasario and several other top notchers.

WONDERFUL INTER LEAGUE GAME

AMERICANS BEAT NATIONALS

New York, July 10. The only Major baseball match arranged for to-day was the glamorous all-star match on the Polo Grounds between the pick of the American and National Leagues.

The greatest players of the National League were pitted against the American League stars, captained by Bill Terry and Joe Cronin respectively.

The American Leaguers won a brilliant match by nine runs to seven.

The game was preceded by the unveiling of a memorial to the late J. J. McGraw, last year's pilot of the National League All-Star team.

The American Leaguers won a brilliant match by nine runs to seven.

The game was preceded by the unveiling of a memorial to the late J. J. McGraw, last year's pilot of the National League All-Star team.

To-day's match opened before 62,000 delirious fans, who were agog with an enthusiasm comparable to the World Series.

The two famous left hand pitchers, Vernon Gomez of the New York Yankees and Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants opened the tussle between two magnificent teams, representing possibly the greatest array of players ever together on one field.

ROSS SUSPENDED SHOCK FOR WORLD CHAMPION

New York. Almost at the moment of his greatest triumph, the winning of the world's Welterweight Title from Jimmy (Babyface) McLarin, Barney Ross, who now stands alone as the only man in ring history ever to hold both the lightweight and welterweight titles at once, was suspended by the National Boxing Association of the United States.

Mr. Edward C. Foster, of Providence, Rhode Island, President of the N.B.A. announced that he had suspended Barney from competition in any of the N.L.A. states, for his failure to honour a contract to fight Tony Herrera, one of Jack (Kid) Berg's victims, in Fort Worth, Texas.

The action of the N.B.A. was demanded by the Texas Boxing Association and followed the suspension of Ross in Texas by Mr. Charles H. Poe, Texas Administrator of boxing and wrestling laws.

Ross' win over Herrera was heralded as one of the greatest ringmen of recent years, who was to have defended his synthetic world's Junior welterweight title against Herrera last autumn and was charged with having declined to go through with the match after the promoters claimed that they spent $12,000 in preparing it.

Ross' win, the junior welterweight title, which is not thought much of in America, from Tony Canzoneri, who previously took it from Jack Berg after the latter had won it from Mushy Callahan in a fight in London.

Frankie Frisch homered for the Nationals in the first innings after Babe Ruth, Gehrig and Foxx had been struck out in succession.

Scoring two, six and one runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings respectively, the Americans indulged in a batting spree, slugging Warneke, Munro, J. Dean and Frank House mercilessly after Hubbell had fanned six players in the first two innings in thrilling style.

NATIONALS' 4-RUN LEAD. Frisch and Joe Medwick homered for the Nationals, who led four-nil at the end of the third inning. Russell, Harder, and V. Gomez pitched for the Americans.

The American Leaguers scored their nine runs from 14 hits, and committed one error, while the Nationals scored seven runs from eight hits and were guilty of one error.—Reuter.

Other eliminations from the singles championship were B. W. Bradbury and L. F. Xavier.

AUSTRALIA WIN KEEN DUEL TO AVOID FOLLOW-ON

LAST THREE BATSMEN SAVE THE DAY

THIRD TEST MATCH ENDS IN A DREARY DRAW

London, July 10.
On Tuesday night Allan Kippax, the Australian batsman, was sent to hospital, believed to be suffering from tonsillitis. Swabs of the throats of the entire Australian team were also taken.

Play was resumed yesterday at Manchester, under a scorching sun and with only three thousand spectators present.

Keston, England's reserve, took the field in place of M. Leyland, who had pulled a long muscle.

C. G. Chipperfield and W. J. O'Reilly, the overnight not-outs, went out to resume Australia's innings, although it was stated the previous day that Chipperfield would not bat unless an emergency arose.

CHIPPERFIELD MAGNIFICENT.

Chipperfield was the first to go, being caught by Walters off Verity for 20. In view of his indisposition, he was a magnificent display, when Australia were fighting to save the follow-on. He scored seven runs off Hammond's first over yesterday, and was altogether at the wickets for a hundred minutes. 454-20-0.

The excitement was intense when Wall joined O'Reilly. Facing Allen, Wall glanced the bowler to the leg boundary, and then only six runs more were required to save the follow-on.

O'Reilly then edged Verity to third man for two, and then lashed out at the same bowler, hitting the ball through the leg trap to the boundary to save the follow-on.

WALL RUN OUT.

When O'Reilly had scored 30, he lost Wall, who was run out by Keaton, fielding at deep square leg. Wall's contribution was 18, and the Innings was thus brought to a close at 401 runs, of which 48 were extras.

Several catches were missed in the field, the principle culprit being Hammond and Hendren. Hopwood too was guilty of a mistake when he sent in his last return, which should have had O'Reilly run out before the follow-on was saved.

Verity was the most successful bowler, taking four wickets at a cost of 78 runs, while Hammond took three for 111 runs. Clark took one wicket for 100 runs, and two were run out victims.

In the short period of play before lunch, Walters and Sutcliffe opened England's second innings. They gathered 21 runs, keeping their wickets intact. The batting was its slowest during this period. Walters had then scored 12 and Sutcliffe eight.

England declared at the tea interval with 123 runs on the board, without the loss of a wicket. C. F. Walters contributed 50 and H. W. Sutcliffe 30.

Wyatt's declaration at 4:15 pm was surprising as the batsmen did not go for the runs, and were not taking any risks, taking altogether 140 minutes to score 123 runs.

Walters reached the boundary on three occasions in scoring his 50, and Sutcliffe scored at a little faster rate, hitting nine boundaries and one six in his 30.

The Australians were left with a couple of hours' batting.

AUSTRALIA BATS.

Ponsford and Brown went to the wicket as Australia's opening batsmen. Before the partnership had gone far, Brown snicked a ball from Hammond into slips, where it was held by Allen, the batsman making his exit for a duck.

McCabe followed Brown, and the pair knocked up a total of 63, to the close of the game: Ponsford making 30, and McCabe 33, which with the extras gave the draw total.

Allen missed McCabe in square leg when the latter had scored 20, but there was no chance of a definite finish.

TEAM'S SICKNESS.

The swabs taken of the Australians' throats have proved negative, except Chipperfield's, whose is not shown to be definitely negative.

Chipperfield has been sent to hospital, where he will remain under observation with Kippax. The remainder of the team is going to Shandfield.

The medical superintendent at the hospital stated that it would not be possible for 24 hours to tell whether the diphtheria germ is present in Chipperfield's swab. There was no diphtheria germ in Kippax's swab; but this is not considered sufficiently definite, and other swabs will be being tested. —Reuter.

INTERNATIONAL POLO.

English Team Beats American Visitors.

Ranelagh, July 10.
England, represented by the Knaves, defeated the American Aurora team in a hard-fought polo match for the King's Coronation Cup to-day, by six goals to three.

Captain Roark gave a brilliant display and his three goals materially assisted the English team to victory. The English team was Capt. Klingston, Capt. Roark, Capt. Prlor-Palmer and Major Harrison. The Americans were Measas, Talbott, Boescke, Know and Post.—Reuter.

The matches between the Club de Recreio and the L.R.C., and between the U.S.R.C. and the Chinese Recreation Club "C" were cancelled on account of rain.

With Tui and Lau, lost to Kong and Tong 2-0, lost to Hung and Cheuk 2-0.

W. H. Lo and W. T. Lee lost to Pui and Lau 3-0, drew with Kong and Tong, drew with Hung and Cheuk.

Sports Programme For The Melbourne Centenary

WORLD'S LEADING CELEBRITIES TO FOREGATHER NEXT WINTER

An elaborate programme has been drafted by the Melbourne Centenary Committee for the celebrations which are to be held in Australia over a period of six months, commencing on October 18 next, and Mr. Norman E. Brookes, the well-known Lawn Tennis player of pre-War days and chairman of the Sports Sub-Committee, in an interview in Hongkong yesterday, outlined the ambitious plans of the Melbourne authorities for the staging of the exhibitions.

What will be the most impressive ceremony during the Celebrations will be the dedication of the Shrine to Fallen Soldiers. The ceremony will be performed by His Royal Highness Prince Henry, who is to attend on behalf of His Majesty the King, on Armistice Day, November 11.

The major part of the programme for the celebrations will be composed of sporting events and invitations have been issued to leading sportsmen all over the world.

Racing will form an important part of the activities and an added inducement to owners to enter their candidates the stakes for the meeting have been increased by nearly 100 per cent.

The highlight of the Melbourne Cup, Australia's biggest race, will be $12,500, which is the largest prize ever offered for the event.

The Victorian Derby will be worth $10,000.

The Lawn Tennis championships will commence on January 12 and it is confidently expected that all the leading players of the world will take part.

Fred Perry, the Wimbledon Champion, will represent England together probably, with G. P. Hughes.

Other noted visitors for the tennis championships will be Miss Dorothy Round, Miss N. M. Lyle, Miss E. M. Dearman (Great Britain), two leading American players, G. V. Kirby and Malcolm (South Africa), G. von Cramm (Germany), E. G. Major (Spain) and R. B. Menzel (Czechoslovakia).

GOLF TOURNAMENTS.

A prize of £3,000 is being offered for the Open Golf championship, this being the biggest ever offered.

For the amateurs a gold cup is to be presented to the winner. There will be other tournaments organised by clubs in Victoria and in the other States as well.

A special invitation has been sent by Mr. Brookes to W. Lawson Little, the American who won the victory over James Wallace in the final of the British Amateur Open Championship recently.

A Centenary Thousand Miles bicycle race is being organised for a prize of £1,000. The event will take place in Victoria and will occupy the best part of a week.

There is also to be a special light car race of 2,000 miles to be held in Central Park in the City itself.

Teams from all the different Australian States and also from New Zealand are to participate in the polo tournament.

What Mr. Brookes described as one of the most interesting sporting events will be the Inter-Empire Public School boys' Athletic meeting.

Teams are being sent from Canada and

New Zealand to compete against the best school boy teams from the various States of Australia.

Yachting and dinghy racing will also have an international flavour as it is expected that some class yachts from America, Honolulu and possibly Java, and, of course, the various Australian States, will assemble at Melbourne for competition. The Honley Regatta will be a very fine show, according to Mr. Brookes.

Amateur athletes from America and Great Britain will be participating against the State teams and teams from New Zealand.

For the swimming events the Committee has built a special pool in the centre of Melbourne, very near the Yarra, and already invitations have been issued to well-known swimmers.

On his way north Mr. Brookes got in touch with the authorities in Manila and in addition to the invitation to Japan he will approach them personally when he is in the country.

He will also see the swimmers, many good performers there as a result of the decline in Honolulu.

When asked if he had any intention of inviting Hongkong swimmers to the Exhibitions, Mr. Brookes replied that he was not aware the Colony possessed any talented swimmers, but he proposed "looking around" before leaving.

BILLIARDS AND CHESS.

For the first time in the history of the country Australia will organise the Empire Professional Billiards Championship. Great Britain, who has hitherto conducted the championships, have agreed to let Australia have the tournament this year in the hope to have Walter Lindrum, Clark McConachy and Joe Davies competing.

A women's sports meeting is to be held on the Melbourne Cricket Club ground, where 3,000 competitors are expected to parade.

A hike from Sydney to Melbourne is being organised while carriers will race between these two cities, bearing messages "to and from" well-known personalities.

It is expected that Dr. A. A. Alekhine, the world's chess champion, will take part in the chess congress.

Mr. Brookes, who is accompanied by his wife and two daughters, will be leaving for the north by freighter Coolidge on Saturday. On Monday Mr. Brookes had some golf at Shek O and to-day he will be given a game of tennis. Whilst in Manila he had a very enjoyable game with Arragon.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

by Elliott Nugent, who co-directed "The Mouthpiece" and "Life Begins".

Nugent was widely known as a stage comedian and playwright before coming to Hollywood.

"Long Lost Father"

The screen turns to an interesting comedy-drama picturization of a prodigal parent in "Long Lost Father", RKO-Radio Picture, starring John Barrymore, in the King's Theatre's new attraction on Thursday with Helen Chandler and John Barrymore. G. B. Stern, popular author, wrote "Long Lost Father". The story concerns the activities of the young Carl Bellairs, who attempts to resume his parental duties to a grown daughter, after not seeing her for twenty years. When he does meet Lindsay Lane, his daughter, he only learns that she hates him more than any other man on earth, for deserting her and her mother when they were in India. The "Long Lost Father" now has some unusual experiences when he starts to impress the daughter with his parental love. "Long Lost Father" was directed by Ernest B. Schoedsack. Others in the cast are Alan Mowbray, E. E. Clive, Reginald Sharland, Natalie Moorhead and Ferdinand Gottschalk.

"Laughing Boy"

The romance of glamour of Indian life in America has been filmed with stirring results for the first time in "Laughing Boy", National Drama starring Ramon Novarro with Lupita Velez as the fiery feminine lead. The picture is now at the Queen's. Previous Indian stories have been concerned with the tribesmen in action as participants in raids, battles and wars while and women struggles.

Now the Indian is presented as a definite personality. His hope, fears and most intimate feelings are portrayed in this picture based on the famous Pulitzer Prize-winning story by Oliver La Farge. Ramon Novarro "reverses" the light and exuberant type of role in which he has often scored and even surpasses his past screen efforts in a restrained portrayal as a young Navajo Indian. The sparkling vigour of Lupita Velez was never more vividly presented than as "Glim Girl", the Indian girl who knows love in the civilized towns, but still craves the primitive men of her tribe. More than a thousand Navajos were used in action filmed on the actual locale of the story on the reservation near Cameron, Arizona with backgrounds of buttes and vast deserts adding to the impressive realism. Minor roles of tourists are capably played by Ruth Channing and Ferdinand Munier, with considerable "punch" put into the "heavy" role by William Davidson.

"Son of a Sailor"

It takes two Browns to tell the story of "Son of a Sailor", a First National comedy hit which is at the Alhambra Theatre. One is Joe E. Brown, the star. The other is Johnny Mack Brown. They're not related, either by blood or marriage. But all cross so many times that it takes half a dozen admirals and almost the entire Pacific fleet to get them untangled. Joe E. Brown and Johnny Mack Brown are pals on the same airplane carrier and fall in love with the same girl before the picture had run its merry course. But all that Joe the hero wins is glory with the romantic honours going to Johnny Mack Brown at the final fadeout. Both Browns have distinguished themselves in kindred sports. Joe E. Brown has a reputation as a crack baseball player and still takes a professional interest in the game. Johnny Mack Brown was a first-line football star before he entered pictures. "Son of a Sailor" is said to be Joe E. Brown's most hilarious comedy. It is a tale of a romantic sailor's adventures filmed in the main aboard the U.S. Saratoga, of the Pacific Fleet, with over 1,000 real gobs taking part. Besides the two Browns, the cast includes Jean Muir, Frank McHugh, Thelma Todd, Sheila Terry, George Blackwood, Merna Kennedy and Kenneth Thomson. Lloyd Bacon directed.

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

As you know, when a partner makes an original bid in first or second position, and you respond with one no trump, you are giving what we term a chance-giving bid. It is not what some people term a sign-off bid—to sign off, you simply pass.

But you do say to your partner, in responding with one no trump, "I do not particularly like the suit you have bid, and I am going to give you a chance to show another wills and dark old mahogany, was a pleasant setting for the untroubled meal.

"Sue's restless," she told him. "She's like me, some time back before I really found myself."

Tom's ready laugh rang out. She was so solemn about it.

"So you've done that, have you? Nobody would ever guess. I thought you were still groping."

"Don't make fun of me, darling. I'm a better wife than I used to be."

He smiled at her, suddenly serious. "You were always," he told her, "everything a man could wish."

They were alone with the coffee things now. Annie was muttering to herself in the kitchen, the child asleep in his big room under the eaves. The blue haze of twilight lingered.

Gypsy tilted the silver coffee pot, filled his cup again. It seemed to her the night pressed close to unfold her happiness in this house, with her man, her child. Marriage was the great adventure—no doubt about it. Lila might roam in the high seas, might taste romance in far places, but she would never know anything surer and sweeter than this. She would never see any lovelier lights than the lights of home.

DEATH OF COOLIE

ALLEGED ALTERATIONS IN INSTALLATION

"I found the installation had been altered and added to; and that instead of 10 temporary lights connected, there were over 60; and that the contractor had in no way conformed with our requirements," said Mr. G. G. Stopani-Thomson, of the Hongkong Electric Company. He stated that an application was received by the head office on March 12, 1934, in the name of the Union Construction Company for a matched at the Upper Pumping Station at the Aberdeen Reservoir. The application was for a motor for 11 lights and two wall sockets, the latter apparently to be used for temporary lights. This installation was tested on March 13, and as it satisfied the Company's requirements, the meter was fixed on March 14.

The inquiry was conducted by Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, the jury consisting of Messrs. J. C. Taylor (foreman), Li Hsing and Wong Sik-wai.

Dr. L. D. Pringle, medical officer in charge of the mortuary, who conducted a post mortem examination of the body stated that his findings were on the whole indefinite, but they were consistent with death caused by an electric shock.

Mr. Austin Spary, of the Electrical Department of the P.W.D., testified that at 8.30 a.m. on June 5, he received information from the officer in charge of the Aberdeen Police Station that a coolie employed by the contractor had been electrocuted on June 4, whilst working in the Lower Aberdeen Reservoir. Witness visited the reservoir at 11.30 a.m. on the same day and carried out some tests.

Tests Unsatisfactory.

The tests, he said, showed that the wires were very bad from the electrical point of view. Forty temporary lights fitted on bamboo poles had been used for illumination for excavation work during the night. The stay wire supporting the poles was also used to prevent the lamps from swinging in the wind; the lamp being secured by a piece of wire. The binding wire was in contact with the live metal in the lamp.

The lamp in use was not of the right type. With this lamp there was always an element of danger. Moreover, witness said, the wire should never have been tied round the lamp.

Evidence of application for the installation of a meter at the reservoir was given by Mr. G. G. Stopani-Thomson, of the Hongkong Electric Company. He stated that an application was received by the head office on March 12, 1934, in the name of the Union Construction Company for a matched at the Upper Pumping Station at the Aberdeen Reservoir. The application was for a motor for 11 lights and two wall sockets, the latter apparently to be used for temporary lights. This installation was tested on March 13, and as it satisfied the Company's requirements, the meter was fixed on March 14.

After the accident, witness examined the installation and found that the installation had been altered and added to. Instead of 10 temporary lights connected there were over 60, and the contractor had in no way conformed with the requirements of the Company.

Witness further stated that the contractor was allowed to attach five lights to each wall socket, but he had removed the sockets together with the switches controlling them and substituted a complete temporary installation. This installation was erected without notification to the Electrical Company.

Materials Specified.

"I would like to point out that the contractor, when applying for an installation, has to sign a form which was introduced a few years ago," said witness. "This form is printed in English and Chinese, specifying the type of wire, the kind of lamp and other things that were to be used."

Foreman of the Jury: In other words, that it should be made safe?

Witness: Certainly. Witness added: "The type of lamp used was wrong, the type of wire used was wrong, and the type of control used was wrong. In several places there were bare patches of wire with the copper exposed and the switch used to control the installation was connected with the wrong side of our supply." The result was that the whole of the temporary installation had a potential of 200 volts above earth.

Coroner: Was that sufficient to cause a severe shock?

Witness: It would cause death to an adult person.

You are speaking as an expert? I am a chartered electrical engineer.

In answer to another question, witness said the temporary installation had a potential of 200 volts above earth whether the lights were in use or not.

Witness concluded by saying that he ordered the current to be switched off at once.

Contract With Government.

Yip Ching-ping, a partner in the Union Construction Company, said his firm was under contract with the Government for the removal of silt from the old Aberdeen Reservoir. He was the person in charge of the work.

Work was done only in the day time when operations commenced, but later the work became more urgent and the Company decided to carry on at night. In consequence, an application was made to the Hongkong Electric Company, through an electrical contractor, for lights to replace kerosene lamps which had hitherto been used. The installation was made by a firm called Tso Ping-kei. The total number of lights used was 40.

The inquiry was adjourned.

Forty temporary lights fitted on bamboo poles had been used for illumination for excavation work during the night. The stay wire supporting the poles was also used to prevent the lamps from swinging in the wind; the lamp being secured by a piece of wire. The binding wire was in contact with the live metal in the lamp.

The lamp in use was not of the right type. With this lamp there was always an element of danger. Moreover, witness said, the wire should never have been tied round the lamp.

Evidence of application for the installation of a meter at the reservoir was given by Mr. G. G. Stopani-Thomson, of the Hongkong Electric Company. He stated that an application was received by the head office on March 12, 1934, in the name of the Union Construction Company for a matched at the Upper Pumping Station at the Aberdeen Reservoir. The application was for a motor for 11 lights and two wall sockets, the latter apparently to be used for temporary lights. This installation was tested on March 13, and as it satisfied the Company's requirements, the meter was fixed on March 14.

After the accident, witness examined the installation and found that the installation had been altered and added to. Instead of 10 temporary lights connected there were over 60, and the contractor had in no way conformed with the requirements of the Company.

Witness further stated that the contractor was allowed to attach five lights to each wall socket, but he had removed the sockets together with the switches controlling them and substituted a complete temporary installation. This installation was erected without notification to the Electrical Company.

Materials Specified.

"I would like to point out that the contractor, when applying for an installation, has to sign a form which was introduced a few years ago," said witness. "This form is printed in English and Chinese, specifying the type of wire, the kind of lamp and other things that were to be used."

Foreman of the Jury: In other words, that it should be made safe?

Witness: Certainly. Witness added: "The type of lamp used was wrong, the type of wire used was wrong, and the type of control used was wrong. In several places there were bare patches of wire with the copper exposed and the switch used to control the installation was connected with the wrong side of our supply." The result was that the whole of the temporary installation had a potential of 200 volts above earth.

Coroner: Was that sufficient to cause a severe shock?

Witness: It would cause death to an adult person.

You are speaking as an expert? I am a chartered electrical engineer.

In answer to another question, witness said the temporary installation had a potential of 200 volts above earth whether the lights were in use or not.

Witness concluded by saying that he ordered the current to be switched off at once.

Contract With Government.

Yip Ching-ping, a partner in the Union Construction Company, said his firm was under contract with the Government for the removal of silt from the old Aberdeen Reservoir. He was the person in charge of the work.

Work was done only in the day time when operations commenced, but later the work became more urgent and the Company decided to carry on at night. In consequence, an application was made to the Hongkong Electric Company, through an electrical contractor, for lights to replace kerosene lamps which had hitherto been used. The installation was made by a firm called Tso Ping-kei. The total number of lights used was 40.

The inquiry was adjourned.

DEATH OF COOLIE

ALLEGED ALTERATIONS IN INSTALLATION

"I found the installation had been altered and added to; and that instead of 10 temporary lights connected, there were over 60; and that the contractor had in no way conformed with our requirements," said Mr. G. G. Stopani-Thomson, of the Hongkong Electric Company. He stated that an application was received by the head office on March 12, 1934, in the name of the Union Construction Company for a matched at the Upper Pumping Station at the Aberdeen Reservoir. The application was for a motor for 11 lights and two wall sockets, the latter apparently to be used for temporary lights. This installation was tested on March 13, and as it satisfied the Company's requirements, the meter was fixed on March 14.

The inquiry was conducted by Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, the jury consisting of Messrs. J. C. Taylor (foreman), Li Hsing and Wong Sik-wai.

Dr. L. D. Pringle, medical officer in charge of the mortuary, who conducted a post mortem examination of the body stated that his findings were on the whole indefinite, but they were consistent with death caused by an electric shock.

Mr. Austin Spary, of the Electrical Department of the P.W.D., testified that at 8.30 a.m. on June 5, he received information from the officer in charge of the Aberdeen Police Station that a coolie employed by the contractor had been electrocuted on June 4, whilst working in the Lower Aberdeen Reservoir. Witness visited the reservoir at 11.30 a.m. on the same day and carried out some tests.

Tests Unsatisfactory.

The tests, he said, showed that the wires were very bad from the electrical point of view. Forty temporary lights fitted on bamboo poles had been used for illumination for excavation work during the night. The stay wire supporting the poles was also used to prevent the lamps from swinging in the wind; the lamp being secured by a piece of wire. The binding wire was in contact with the live metal in the lamp.

The lamp in use was not of the right type. With this lamp there was always an element of danger. Moreover, witness said, the wire should never have been tied round the lamp.

ROTTERDAM "REVOLT"

POLICE FIRED ON IN CROOSWYK

BLOCKADE OF DISTRICT

Rotterdam, July 11.

The spirit of revolt which flared up in Amsterdam as a result of the cuts in unemployment grants, has now developed in Rotterdam.

Violent scenes were witnessed in working-class districts of the city to-night, notably in one sector of the town.

Residents of the Crooswyk quarter opened fire on the police from their windows to-night and the police returned the fire.

An old woman of seventy was among those hit.

Strong measures have been taken by the authorities as a result of the outbreak. There are now large forces of mounted police, military and gendarmes in the district, whose inhabitants have been forbidden to leave their houses.

BLOCKADE.

The delivery of food, mail or newspapers to the district has also been forbidden.

Searchlights are playing along the streets.

A woman barrister, the secretary of the Independent Socialist Party has been arrested for sedition. All the disturbances arose out of the cuts in the dole.—Reuter.

GREAT OFFENSIVE IN GRAN CHACO

FATE OR WAR IN BALANCE?

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messenger Ordinance, 1891. Received July 11, 10.12 a.m.)

Buenos Aires, July 10.

Severe fighting is proceeding in the Gran Chaco. The Asuncion claim of important successes near Fort Ballivan is confirmed by independent sources, but the offensive now appears to have worn itself out and come to a halt.

Forty thousand Paraguayan troops were thrown into the attack on the outer fortifications of the Bolivian fort and they established a new line after an advance of one kilometre, during which they overwhelmed the third line of the Bolivian trenches in front of Fort Ballivan.

A fierce battle is still proceeding, the outcome of which it is possible will decide the fortune of the war.

It appears that the Paraguayans suffered very heavy losses in gaining ground and it is reported that they have halted their advance.

Bolivian despatches admit that their troops at Ballivan have retreated, but add that the battle is only just starting.—United Press.

DR. GOEBBELS ON JUNE 30

ACID ATTACK ON FOREIGN PRESS

CAMPAIGN OF SLANDER

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messenger Ordinance, 1891. Received July 11, 1.12 a.m.)

Berlin, July 11.

A slashing attack on foreign reports of the dramatic events in Germany round about June 30 was delivered last night by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, the Minister of Propaganda.

The speech was broadcast throughout the Reich, and consisted largely of an acid attack on the Berlin correspondents of the foreign press generally, in greeting the events of June 30 with "a campaign of lies, in malice-only comparable to the atrocity campaign incited against Germany during the world war."

He issued a warning that the Hitler Government would not tolerate in Germany correspondents using such methods.

MISERABLY ORGANISED.

In contrast with the propaganda of the war, he went on, the campaign was "miserably organised," so much so that reports from Germany were self-contradicted time and again.

It suggested that if the correspondents desired to overcome this, they should co-operate more closely."

HYSTERICAL SLANDER.

Dr. Goebbels specifically attacked a number of British and French and other newspapers and agencies and wireless broadcasting stations, declaring that the foreign press had had an opportunity to report German events objectively, whereas, in reality "with the exception of several serious foreign newspapers which have not lost their calm deliberation and soberness of judgment, the rest of the international press has succumbed to the frenzy of malicious incitement and hysterical slander."

INDIGNANT PROTEST.

"I protest indignantly, disappointedly and emphatically against the campaign and I declare that the German Government is no longer willing to tolerate foreign correspondents who thus incite peoples against each other, conjuring up an atmosphere in which any honourable and unprejudiced relations between nations are rendered impossible."—United Press.

BARTHOU-SIMON AGREEMENT

IMPORTANT RESULTS OF LONDON TALKS

REVIVED HOPE FOR DISARMAMENT

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messenger Ordinance, 1891. Received, July 11, 9.56 a.m.)

LONDON, JULY 11.

BEHIND THE USUAL CRYPTICALLY-WORDED OFFICIAL SUMMARY OF THE SIMON-BARTHOU CONVERSATIONS THERE LIES AN AGREEMENT FOR CO-RELATION OF POLICY WHICH IS BELIEVED TO REPRESENT THE MOST IMPORTANT CONTRIBUTION TO THE STABILISATION OF THE EUROPEAN SITUATION SINCE THE LOCARNO PACT.

The possibility of important French concessions to Germany in the field of armaments, largely bridging the apparently unbridgeable gap between their viewpoints is now envisaged.

Plans have been formed for the conclusion of a Seven-Power Pact in Eastern Europe, to which Great Britain will not be expected to append her signature, but which will depend upon the readiness of Germany to enter into it.

BRITAIN'S BENEVOLENT NEUTRALITY

Authoritative information gleaned after M. Barthou's departure for Paris leaves little doubt that the Anglo-French conversations may be regarded as among the most important moves made since the war for the consolidation of European peace.

There is a new hope for a disarmament convention, without calling for additional commitments by Britain.

It is learned from the most reliable sources that the outstanding results of the talks are:

FRANCO-SOVIET SCHEME.

Britain has agreed to regard with benevolent neutrality the Franco-Soviet scheme for a Seven-Power Eastern European Pact of Mutual Assistance, including Germany.

France, on her part, has intimated her willingness and readiness to grant important arms concessions to Germany, legalising reasonable German rearmament, provided that Germany is prepared to join the proposed Eastern European Pact of Mutual Assistance.

ARMS PARLEY REVIVAL?

These two points are regarded as certain to impart the badly-needed fresh vitality to the dying Disarmament Conference, which is expected to resume its sittings in a much more healthy atmosphere, although obvious many technical points will remain to be cleared away.—United Press.

NO NEW PLEDGES.

CHINA'S REVISED CONSTITUTION

WIDE POWERS TO PRESIDENT

WHO MUST BE CIVILIAN

Nanking, July 11.

Vital changes are embodied in the new draft of the proposed constitution for China, as a result of the revisions made by the Commission responsible.

The most notable change is the introduction of the Presidential System of government.

Swinging from one extreme to the other, the Drafting Committee gives the President the widest possible power, including supreme command of the country's armed forces, army, navy and air force; authority to declare war and to negotiate peace; to appoint and dismiss civil and military officials; and to proclaim or to suspend martial law.

The important feature of the Presidency as contemplated is the Committee's insistence upon a civilian incumbent.

NO MILITARY MAN.

No persons engaged in active military service will be eligible for the Presidency, the Vice-President or to other administrative posts, including Provincial Governorships.

LIGHTING FIXTURES MATCH PERIOD FURNITURE

The Lafayette fixture (left), is copied from the Federal era. It consists of a bracket of wrought metals finished in brass, clear crystal globe and bands of tone black. At top right, the American adaptation clipper ship sconce, copy of an old whaling lantern, has a scalloped frame, lighthouse glass back plate, candle cup and saucer of wrought brass. At lower right a classic modern wrought-brass backplate finished in polished chromium supports a crystal glass shade decorated with burnished silver etched laurel sprays.

By Mary Margaret McBride
New York.—And now, if you please, we have period lights for our homes to go with our period chairs and chests. It's about time, too. Lighting fixtures have too long been a painful note in home decoration, for no more reason apparently than that housekeepers thought other details more important. The result has been some gruesome-looking objects in most houses and apartments that have stuck out from the walls like sore thumbs—sometimes right next door to old masters, too!

The odd thing about it is that persons of taste long ago realized that if you have a room in the Early American style, let's say, you don't put an Early English or a mission desk in it as a permanent feature. On the contrary, you try, within your pocketbook, of course, to keep all the decorative items in harmony. Except the lights!

Day of Brass Monstrosities Over
But now the artist has been called into the picture and the results are really very nice. The skilled designer has gone right into the factory and firmly banished the brass and bronze monstrosities which were direct descendants of those hideous pipes and globes of gas-jet days.

The new lights are done in many forms and in every architectural or artistic period. Thus, for your early English room, you may get early English fixtures faithful in every detail to the period as well as others to match the early American, Jacobean, Georgian, Empire, Federal or Directoire decorative notes.

Some of these 1934 models use colour cleverly. An early American lantern for instance is scarlet inside, partly because the original from which it was copied was painted scarlet and partly because the scarlet note will brighten up your hall. Other simple and quite lovely fixtures come in Corsican green and Republic red, gold and white and shining chromium. The variety is great enough to permit of fitting any room with lights which harmonize with, and point up, the entire scheme.

Proper Light Eliminates Glare

Proper lighting is a science to which not nearly enough attention is paid anyway. The common mistake of the householder seems to be to confuse glare with light. Shining bulbs and insufficient shading or frosting mean eye strain for those who try to work or read by them. And then there is the important matter of devising a lighting that will flatter both homeowners and guests. A glare certainly will—not, what—with everybody blinking and winking and looking ghastly under its irritating influence.

Centre lights seem to be coming back as a result of the new artistic influence. Lurelle Guild, the designer, has turned out some ceiling fixtures that have the great asset of both direct and indirect lighting. That is, they have the usual visible bulbs and also have in the centre bowl hidden bulbs which reflect the light up towards the ceiling.

Avoid Over-use of Centre Light

Even though you may like the design, don't keep your centre light on all the time. It's all right for company, but home evenings turn out better for everybody if you depend upon lamps and wall brackets. A lighting authority declares one wall bracket every fifteen feet is a good rule to follow, but the best way is to use your own judgment about this.

Lamps, luckily are following the general trend and becoming simpler and more classic with fewer meaningless dangles and trick shades. And no lamp should be so high, remember, that it shows a bright and unshaded bulb glaring out from under the shade!

CHAPTER XLVIII

The maples show red banners against a sky of heavenly blue. The air was crisp and bracing here under the old trees with a boy of four spread-eagled in a sand pile and two or three white-capped workmen loitering among the shrubbery.

Two women came out of the house and stood on the porch. One was slight with flyaway dark curly hair and an apricot flush on her cheek. The other had crisp red hair under her white felt hat. She was smiling.

"I think you've done wonders to the place," she said eagerly. "Who would have thought of making that old barn into a studio? It's perfect."

"The school will be open next week," said the dark-haired one with animation. "I have two helpers already. Of course it's an experiment so we can't promise much in the way of money. We have three groups. The Juniors, from 18 months to two and a half; and the runabouts who can go from that to four. (David is in that.) And then the seniors. They're the real kindergartners, of course—the average pre-school children. Why don't you come in?"

"Oh, I'd love to," Gypsey cried. "Sue, Gibson. I wonder if I could! I don't know what about the work but I was wondering what on earth I'd do with myself this winter. Of course while Hunt and I were in Mexico I was busy—it was fascinating. I learned Spanish. I even took a course in archaeology, although half the time I didn't know what Professor de Mores was talking about. But it was good practice."

"Well, talk it over with Hunt anyway," said Gypsey, encouraging. "You'll be in an apartment, so if you don't go in for golf or bridge or something you'll have time on your hands."

"Plenty of that," said Sue soberly. "Gypsey, he really is a pet—David, I mean. You don't know how I envy you!"

"He's sweet." The dark-haired young woman's eyes shone. "But do you know, if I could have been out here that first year instead of in an apartment everything would have been different. I used to think I would go crazy, cooped up there in the city, with nothing to look out at—notting to do, stove. He was—she shuddered really, although Davy's needs kept me busy enough. That's the trouble with the first years of marriage," she mused. "You're getting used to an entirely different kind of life—no one really prepares you for it. Somehow you have a feeling that it's just going to be a continuation of the parties and showers everyone has been giving for you. And then suddenly you're cook and chambermaid and nurse and you don't know what it's all about."

"You didn't seem to have any bumps the first year, though," Sue said, pulling her white gloves on. "You and Tom always got on beautifully."

" Didn't I, though?" Gypsey's eyes crinkled reminiscently. "Well, I was pretty silly and half-baked, I can tell you. I used to go to Lila's to a party and come home and be discontented for a week. Tom was sweet. He knew it was bad for me but he didn't say a word. Then when he was working hard, trying desperately to get a foothold in the office, I'd crab if he were kept late. I'd be horrid and suspicious and jealous. Don't be jealous, Sue," she interrupted herself to say. "It spoils everything. Half the time it's something manufactured out of your own head. If I'd had some work that interested me—or if I had been able to get away from the baby often, keep my brains dusted off, I never would have been like that. That's what we hope to do for the girls around here. They won't have to worry about their children four mornings a week. We're keeping the fee down so that almost anyone can afford it. And we're going to have lots of fun."

"How did you happen to find this place?" Sue wanted to know, leading the way to her little car, parked under the big sugar maple which was already shedding its autumn effulgence all over the driveway.

"Well, we were in the market. I don't know whether I ever told you—the cabin at Wading Hollow burned down. That village idiot giggling.

"Doesn't like to be babbled," Gypsey said inaudibly.

"I'm goin' to build a house myself," the boy boasted. "Bettarn' the men."

"Of course you are," Gypsey surveyed him with pride. "Call me when you've finished. I want to see." The child strutted away, proud and zestful.

Sue lingered, her hand fumbling for the ignition key. "I declare I wish I hadn't promised to go to Elsie Wilbur's tea," she said. "I'd like to stop here all afternoon. We haven't talked things out. There are dozens of people I want to know about. By the way, what ever became of Lila Bliss? The last I heard of her she was cutting a great swathe abroad."

Gypsey shook her head. "Poor Lila! She felt miserable about being mixed up in that English divorce case. It wasn't in the least her fault."

"Well, maybe not," observed Sue. "You always had a soft spot for her. I must say I couldn't see her, ever."

"She was undisciplined—we all were," Gypsey defended. Sue burst out laughing. "You talk a grey-beard, my dear. You must be all of 27."

"I've learned a lot," Gypsey told her soberly. "I've learned to keep quiet and smile when I feel like flying into a temper. I've had to learn lots, for David's sake. That's one thing motherhood teaches you—self-control."

"Well, you're an angel and I love you. Look for me some day next week." Sue flung back as she started the car. The last glimpse she had of Gypsey was a dark blue figure silhouetted against the clear haze of the September sky, as she argued tempestuously with a carpenter. Was it possible, Sue thought, driving off, that she had ever been jealous of her friend? Ridiculous and yet true. She had suffered torments over it. Now Hunt was hers. Gypsey had been married five whole years. They were all getting staid and settled. No more flurries . . . no heartbreaks . . .

Marriage changes us all, Sue thought. Some for the worse (there was Lila!) and some for the better.

In the candlelight, with Clytie's second daughter, Annie, coming to and fro with hot food in the blue dishes, Gypsey told Tom about Sue's visit. Gypsey had changed her black and jersey for an organdie frock stripped and plaided in pale green. Her lovely neck and shoulders were bare. The old dining room with its white panelled walls.

CONSTABLE AND A DOGGARDENER'S STORY IN COURT

"I am ready to pay a fine, but what I object to is the behaviour of the constable. He practically called the dog out," stated Mr. Y. P. Low, of No. 40 Robinson Road, when he appeared before Mr. MacIntyde this morning summons for allowing his dog, an Alsatian pup, to be abroad without a muzzle.

An Indian constable said he saw the dog for six or seven minutes unmuzzled in Mosque Terrace. It was playing with a child.

Ho Fook, gardener in the employ of defendant, said the dog was asleep near the back entrance of the house. The constable, passing by, thought it had no licence and asked for it. Witness called the dog to show its collar and the dog ran out, but returned immediately.

The magistrate dismissed the case.

CASES ADJOURNED.

Summons against E. J. R. Mitchell, of No. 9 Shek-O, for allowing a bull terrier and a fox terrier on the roadway at Big Wave Bay unmuzzled, and J. Walker, of the Hongkong Jockey Club stables, for allowing two Spaniel dogs abroad unmuzzled on Shek-O beach on July 1, were adjourned for one week.

It was stated that Mr. Mitchell was indisposed.

MISHAP DURING JOY RIDESEQUEL IN POLICE COURT

A joy ride which resulted in an accident on Shaukiwan Hill, had a sequel before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when Henry Wong, a student, aged 18, was charged on two counts of having driven private car No. 233 without a driver's licence in Island Road on July 9, and also with having driven without the permission of the owner, Mr. M. T. Fung.

Yakob Khan, 25 years, was jointly charged with having driven the car without the permission of the owner.

Khan told the Court that he did not know to whom the car belonged. The first defendant engaged him to drive it.

Traffic Inspector Nicol said the first defendant told Khan he would pay him $10 if he would drive the car for three hours.

Wong, in answer to the first charge, said he had only started the car. A man named Ip had given him permission to drive the car.

Inspector Nicol added that Wong drove the car from No. 7 Police Station to Shaukiwan. While coming down the hill, the car overturned, and it was damaged to the extent of $173.

Mr. Hamilton fixed hearing of the case for noon to-morrow, and fixed Wong's bail at $1,000, and Khan's at $50.

NOTES OF THE DAY

STRIKE VIOLENCE

When strikes boil over into pitched street warfare of the kind seen recently in the United States in Toledo, Minneapolis and San Francisco, beyond doubt they cease to rank as industrial disputes and come perilously close to class war. The violence of San Francisco has a significance far more weighty than is involved in an argument between workers and employers. It is futile, that is, to try and understand the troubles by discussing the specific demands that the longshoremen are making and the refusal of the employers to negotiate except upon their own terms. Fighting as serious as that witnessed last week has a deeper reason than disagreement about conditions of employment.

PHYSIC SCAR

Something is on the workers' minds—something that makes them angry and reckless enough to risk policemen's clubs, tear gas, and national guardsmen's bullets. No matter how much we may deplore the results, it would be foolish if no attempt was made to find out just what it is that is wrong. It seems highly probable that basically the trouble comes from a deep discontent with the way the recovery programme is working out. The United States is just emerging from a period of extreme hardship. All have suffered during the depression, but few have had quite such a thin time of it as the wage-earner. It has left him with what might be called a psychic scar that will be a long time healing.

SAME OLD WAY

Bearing that scar, the worker makes ready for the new deal and finds that in many cases it is being played with the same old cards, in the same old way. Fine words about human rights have been said at Washington, but they haven't been put into effect. There are still employers who look back to Homestead for lessons in the way to handle labour trouble. There are still officials who forget that they are representatives of all residents in a State and are not entitled to take sides in an industrial dispute. And Washington still postpones the job of formulating a definite and clear-cut labour policy. All this, of course, does not excuse the violence. It does not bring dead men back to life, or make it right to toss bricks at policemen and troopers. But it does help to right themselves. The present situation calls for new policies, new aims, and a clear vision. It calls for courageous leadership.

FORCE—OR REASON?

Then again, those American citizens who like Socialism or class warfare least should be most concerned about the tear gas method of combatting them. One of the best ways of creating bitter feelings, intensifying opposition to the employers are the bear-gas manners of City and State authorities. In the deplorable events of the past few months, America has been far too speedy in resort to counter-violence of an extreme type and almost every incident has been aggravated. The spirit of these times reflects, it would seem, an attitude that has been all too common in political thinking, by the privileged and those placed in authority—conveniently forgetting who placed them in their positions. It is the same attitude that preserves the use of force in settling differences between nations, the old, old belief that force is really an adequate substitute for reason.

PARENTS AND MOVIES

Where lies the responsibility when children see undesirable motion pictures? The responsibility of the producers is too obvious to need discussion—but what measure of it belongs to all parents? Some are only too aware of their responsibility, but feel quite unable to cope with the problem. The argument presents itself in this light: "All neighbour boys and girls go to the pictures continually, so how can I possibly keep Tommy at home?" This may seem difficult, but where the programme is undesirable it is an inescapable duty. That is the spirit behind the "League of Decency" organised by the churches in the United States, which has already made the film industry think. Nevertheless, a movement of Blue Stockings is obviously liable to become a confounded nuisance and an imposition. When films for adults are in question, the individual judgment of suitability is as sound as any, in the long run.

We offer this suggestion as a constructive contribution to the discussion now proceeding, and as one which, whilst catering to public needs, would not involve the Company in heavy capital outlay.

BACK INTO THE DOGFIGHT

By VISCOUNT SNOWDEN

I HAVE not taken an active part in politics since I resigned from the Government eighteen months ago. My time has been occupied with other work, which is now finished.

I did not retire in 1931 to do this work. I should have been in the Government now had that been possible. My difference with the majority of my colleagues on the tariff question was not the only reason for my resignation. The general policy of the Government was clearly tending in directions I could not approve. I became convinced that if I remained in office I should be committed to the support of a Government which had lost its national character and become a party government.

The Prime Minister has become a mere Tory instrument. The Labour point of view and the Labour programme received from him no consideration. He fought for neither.

The Prime Minister had declared that it was a Government where the three parties constituting it would contribute their own views, and that out of this pooling of ideas a great constructive programme would be evolved.

But it was impressed on me that there was only one party policy which would be accepted, and that the Government was rapidly falling into the rut where all former Governments had floundered, and that it would muddle along without any conception of the urgent need for a new inspiration in government. Events have tragically justified my anticipations.

In my letter of resignation I said: "I have no party allegiance; but I hope to be able to serve in an independent political position the causes in which I believe, and to help according to my lights to promote the welfare of my country."

I am now free to carry out that intention. The national situation calls for all the nation's reserves as loudly as it did in 1931.

Conditions to-day are not normal. Never in our history, probably, was the national situation more critical; never more full of menace; never was the call to action more imperative. The time is past when the nation could muddle along in the old, complacent way, waiting for things to right themselves. The present situation calls for new policies, new aims, and a clear vision. It calls for courageous leadership.

A vast number of people are losing their faith in Parliament as an institution capable of redressing grievances and grappling adequately with social evils. It is idle folly to imagine that this country is immune from the influences which have overthrown democratic government in other lands.

If the responsible leaders of the nation cannot, or will not, face up to the new situation they run serious risks of being overthrown by wild and passionate adventurers promising a short cut to prosperity. Old party ties no longer command the support of indifferent followers. The general indecisiveness at elections means more than is generally imputed to it. The small polls are an indication of lost faith in Parliament.

In everything it has done or attempted so far the Government has shown a lamentable lack of leadership. The failure of the Disarmament, (Continued on Page 10.)

The Very Idea!

RINGING WET

By George

THE telephone hoax is having its repercussions.

Having heard practically every possible excuse from the girl for being late, we thought we had her cornered last night when she turned up 20 minutes past the appointed hour.

"Aint I prompt?" she smiled. (we should mention that the girl is not very strong on grammar). "No you aint," we said darkly. "Only 20 minutes late."

"Why George, you phoned up to say you couldn't get here till 7.20 p.m. . . ."

A fierce argument followed which only the theory of the telephone hoax prevented from becoming a fight.

Anyway we now have a little password so we shall either find the hoaxer or she will have to find a new excuse.

And there has been other trouble too.

The office rang us up just as we were going off for a night swimming picnic.

"Is that you, George? Well you'll have to come to the office and do some work. When can you get over?"

"Sorry. Can't be helped, I should save that for The Very Idea."

"I don't believe I'm wanted at all. It's a joke."

Well you better laugh it off in the office or explain to the Old Man in the morning."

"I'm not coming over. It's a hoax."

And therupon we rang off and trotted away.

Came the dawn.

We have just left the Old Man still only partly convinced. Nowadays we don't want to hear a telephone ring.

There is a chit on our desk to the effect that Wilson has rung up inviting us to tea.

We took it up and threw it into the waste paper basket.

Fortunately there are some things that are past belief.

THE HORSE

(Extracts From Little Ada's Exercise Book)

The horse.

The horse is a noble animal and has been called man's best friend ever since (or because of) the Garden of Eden (though teacher says it was a snake what done the trick and not the apple).

Some horses are built for speed but others only look that way.

Teacher says that racing is a wicked sport and that it hurts the horse's feelings when money is placed on its chances of winning. The horse feels that the game is the thing and will often slow down behind the other horses so as to have the fun of trying to catch them up.

If it fails to do so it will take its defeat in a sporting manner and smiling bravely at the owner, its large brown eyes will seem to say: Never mind, master, I am not discouraged.

The admirable thing about a horse is that it never gives up. If it is entered in a long race it insists on finishing the course if it takes half an hour longer to do it.

The horse can easily be distinguished from the owner as the latter is invariably seen with a cigar.

Another motorist has reported that his "Baby" has been kidnapped and long grass in the vicinity is being diligently thrashed by the police in the hope of solving the mystery.

The car was driven away from Statue Square and it is believed that violence must have been used as the owner indignantly declared to us this morning that nothing short of a gallon of milk would induce it to follow a stranger. A certain amount of less majestic attachment to the crime as the car was parked under the statue of Queen Victoria.

A wit who suggested that the pockets of the statues be searched was curiously informed by the L.G.C. that he was not amused. However he left a bottle of milk on the baby's parking site and examined the statues next morning when the milk had disappeared without the return of the truant.

Suggestions have been made to prevent a repetition of these wholesale removals, either by taking off the wheels of the car and taking them home or letting parked cars to street sleepers at a nominal fee.

General Johnson Tired

SUGGESTS BOARD FOR N.R.A.

Washington, July 10.—General Hugh Johnson, Administrator of the N.R.A., appears finding the job too much for him and is anxious to hand over.

It was learned to-day that General Johnson has recommended President Roosevelt to appoint a Commission to direct the National Recovery Administration and to allow him to retire.

He stated: "I have recommended to the President that this won't be a one-man job when it passes into the fold of administration."

"I have suggested a Board or a Commission."

Asked whether he would continue in office until the next Congress meets, General Johnson answered that that is probable, although he would like to get away as soon as possible.

"I am prepared to stay as long as the President thinks he needs me."—Reuters.

These questions have included the French proposals for additional mutual security in Eastern Europe, the future of the Disarmament Conference and preparation for the Naval Conference of 1936.

In connection with this last point Monsieur Etelri will remain in London for a few days longer."

HEAT WAVE RETURNS

SHANGHAI AGAIN SWELTERS

CHINESE AND THE RAIN GODS

Shanghai, July 11.

Disastrous failure of all crops in the great provinces of Chekiang and Kiangsu seems certain unless the drought is soon broken.

Petitions have been sent to the Mayor of Greater Shanghai and to the provincial authorities by a group of prominent and influential Chinese urging them to forbid the slaughter of domestic cattle for one week to appease the rain gods.

The heat wave has again swept back to the Shanghai area and for hundreds of miles around, after a short spell of comparatively milder weather when the temperature dropped to below a hundred.

The relief was only short, however, and purely relative. No rain has fallen; it was just not quite so blindingly hot as it was.

Yesterday, however, the mercury again climbed and 101.8° were registered in Shanghai. The farmers of Chekiang and Kiangsu are constantly praying for rain to save their crops.—Reuters.

KOWLOON TONG PIG SHED NO PERMISSION FOR STRUCTURE

Chau Kee, 71, and Chau King, 48, were charged before Mr. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning with occupying and erecting a wooden shed on Crown land at Beacon Hill in Kowloon Tong without a permit.

Mr. W. Routley, of the P.W.D., said defendants had occupied the land for about three months, during which time they had been told to move on no fewer than eight occasions.

His Worship:—Would they get a permit if they applied for one?

Mr. Routley:—No, your Worship. The defendants rear pigs and there is no chance of a permit being issued to them in that locality at Kowloon Tong. The residents would be complaining.

His Worship imposed a fine of $25 or one month, and ordered the dwelling to be removed.

NEWFOUNDLAND AFFAIRS DEVELOPMENT PLANS OUTLINED

London, July 10.—Answering a Parliamentary question regarding the economic situation in Newfoundland, the Dominion Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, said the Commission of Government had already made considerable progress with development schemes in Newfoundland and Labrador, and authority had recently been given for special development expenditure of £1,300,000, to be financed by long-term loans from the Colonial Development Fund.

This expenditure would be devoted to the building of fishing vessels for purchase by fishermen on the instalment plan, to road construction with a view to facilitating agricultural settlement, and to development of a harbour at Port au Basques, the railway terminus on the west coast.—British Wireless.

YORKS DROP MORE COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP POINTS

LANCASHIRE CREEPING UP ON SUSSEX

LEADERS HELD TO A DRAW BY ESSEX: NOTTS WIN

London, July 10.
Although Sussex were held to a draw and Lancashire gained a substantial win against Northants, there has been no change in the leadership of the county championship.

Yorkshire dropped further back thanks to a first innings defeat by Surrey, and Kent, who were up to the beginning of last week in third position, found themselves half-way down the table as a result of losing further points.

With hard and dry wickets the general experience, the bat beat the ball in the majority of games, and three encounters were left without any definite result.

Gloucester and Lancashire both won handsomely against weak teams. Northants added further to their miserable record by losing by an innings to the Red Rose.

In this match Tyldesley was the outstanding batsman, compiling 122, allowing Lancashire to aggregate 409.

Against the deliveries of Sibbles and Parkinson (the latter a comparatively "unknown" player), Northants could make no sort of a show, and were rapidly disposed of for a total of 341 in two innings.

SMART GLOUCESTER WIN.

Glocester scored a smart victory against Glamorgan. They were 103 runs behind on the first innings, but the Welshmen collapsed in their second innings, leaving Gloucester to score 237 to win. These were obtained for the loss of three wickets.

Notts completely outplayed Warwick to win by ten wickets, despite some fine batting by Santall, who in the losers' first knock scored 130, and followed this up with an 81.

The veteran Philip Mead again enjoyed himself at the expense of Kent, hitting up 198. He received good support from Kennedy (130) and Hampshire finally totalled 528. Kent made a bold reply, and thanks largely to Frank Woolley (122) saved the follow-on, Kent scoring 400. Hampshire played out time hitting up 212 for 6.

TWELVE HUNDRED RUNS.

No less than twelve hundred runs were scored in the Sussex v Essex match, and a conclusive result was out of the question. Sussex took first innings points, due to a big score of 461 for 6 declared. Chief run-getters were A. Melville (95) and John Parks (98).

Essex responded well with 323 and forced Sussex to bat again. They hit up 216 for 3 and then declared, but Essex easily saved the game, playing out time by compiling 204 for six wickets.

Facing a score of 372, Surrey did well to beat Yorkshire on the first innings. Mitchell batted brilliantly for the champions to score 181, while Gover's figures of 6 for 102 expressed a remarkable piece of bowling.

An innings of 123 by Watt, and substantial contributions by several other players saw Surrey aggregate 465 in reply, and they then dismissed Yorkshire for 277 in their return to the crease.

Surrey did not have an altogether easy time in their last innings, and at the close had lost four wickets for 46 runs.—Reuter.

Hampshire (528 & 216-6) beat Kent (400) on first innings.
Surrey (465 & 45-4) beat Yorkshire (372 & 277) on first innings.
Notts (442-8 dec. & 26-0) beat Warwick (244 & 223) by ten wickets.

Young Frisco Invading Japan

QUEST BY ORIENT CHAMPION

Young Frisco, welterweight champion of the Orient and Young Tarley, contender for feather-weight honours, with their manager, Vicente Castro sailed from Manila last week for series of two fights each in Zamboanga preparatory to an invasion of Japan where Frisco will meet Tony Gora and Tarley taken on Young Tommy's conqueror.

From Japan Castro and his ambitious fistcuffers will proceed to Australia. And if their invasion proves successful they will continue on to the United States, according to manager Vic Castro. The departure of Young Frisco and Young Tarley will be sadly missed by local fans as both these boys have made a name for themselves hereabouts. Frisco, it should be remembered, stepped into the limelight when he decisively whipped Young Ignacio Fernandez to annex the welter crown late last year. He successfully defended his title by knocking out Fighting Nelson and Leo Bruno in succession. Frisco is only 18 years old and great things are ahead for him.

Tarley is the logical contender for the feather title. Scores of fight fans believe this boy is the uncrowned king in the feather-weight division. Among Tarley's victims have been Ventura Martinez, Rush Binoy whom he knocked out in 3 rounds, Joe Mosquido, Joe Parasid and several other top notchers.

BASEBALL STARS ON VIEW

WONDERFUL INTER LEAGUE GAME

AMERICANS BEAT NATIONALS

New York, July 10.

The only Major baseball match arranged for to-day was the glamorous all-star match on the Polo Grounds between the pick of the American and National Leagues.

WHEREAS 38 years ago, the average runs scored per wicket was 29, in this Intertot match, there was an average of 65 runs per wicket.

FOURTEEN Tests have now been played at Old Trafford, nine of which have been left drawn, three have been won by England, and two by Australia.

THE game just finished has been one of very few played at Manchester which has been entirely unaffected by rain. All of the other eight drawn matches were due to rain.

STANLEY McCabe's first Innings century was his first made in Test cricket on English soil. Incidentally during the match he scored 170 for once out.

JUST how playful the match became after tea yesterday can be gauged by the fact that Hendren was put on to bowl. He sent down one over and conceded seven runs.

The American Leaguers won a brilliant match by nine runs to seven.

The game was preceded by the unveiling of a memorial to the late J. J. McGraw, last year's pilot of the National League All-Star team.

THE figures for Hopwood and Verity during this last phase of the match are interesting. Hopwood bowled five "maiden" in nine overs. Verity had four "maiden" overs in the course of 30 balls.

52,000 DELIRIOUS FANS.

To-day's match opened before 52,000 delirious fans, who were agog with an enthusiasm comparable to the World Series.

The two famous left hand pitchers, Vernon Gomez of the New York Yankees and Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants opened the tussle between two magnificent teams, representing possibly the greatest array of players ever together on one field.

ROSS SUSPENDED SHOCK FOR WORLD CHAMPION

New York.

Almost at the moment of his greatest triumph, the winning of the world's Welterweight Title from Jimmy (Babyface) McLarnin, Barney Ross, who now stands alone as the only man in ring history ever to hold both the Light-weight and Welterweight titles at once, was suspended by the National Boxing Association of the United States.

Mr. Edward C. Foster, of Providence, Rhode Island, President of the N.B.A. announced that he had suspended Ross from competition in any of the N.B.A. states, for his failure to honour a contract to fight Tony Herrera, one of Jack (Kid) Berg's victims, in Fort Worth, Texas.

The action of the N.B.A. was demanded by the Texas Boxing Association and followed the suspension of Ross in Texas by Mr. Charles H. Poe, Texas Administrator of boxing and wrestling laws.

GREAT FIGHTER.

The Chicagoan, who as a result of his sensational win over the Dublin fighter is heralded to-day as one of the greatest ringmen of recent years, was to have defended his synthetic world's Junior Welter-weight title against Herrera last autumn and was charged with having declined to go through with the match after the promoters claimed that they spent $12,000 in preparing it.

Ross won the Junior Welter-weight title, which is not thought much of in America, from Tony Canzoneri, who previously took it from Jack Berg after the latter had won it from Murdy Callahan in a fight in London.

Frisch and Joe Medwick homered for the Nationals in the first innings after Babe Ruth, Gehrig and Foxx had been struck out in succession.

Scoring two, six and one runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings respectively, the Americans indulged in a batting spree, slugging Warneke, Mungo, J. Dean and Frank House mercilessly after Hubbell had fanned six players in the first two innings in thrilling style.

NATIONALS' 4-RUN LEAD.

Frisch and Joe Medwick homered for the Nationals, who led four-nil at the end of the third inning. Ruth, Harder, and V. Gomez pitched for the Americans. The American Leaguers scored their nine runs from 14 hits, and committed one error, while the Nationals scored seven runs from eight hits and were guilty of one error.—Reuter.

Lawn Bowls Championship

EXCITING ENCOUNTER ENDS IN DEFEAT OF GITTINS

An exceedingly fine game in the open singles championship of the lawn bowls competition was played on the existing record for the highest aggregate in an innings. Hendren and Hall with 637 for 9 declared, and Australia with 491. In addition there was a new aggregate for the whole match. The previous best was 1,073 in 1890. Thirty seven wickets fell during that match. But in the one just concluded 1,307 (notice the same figures appear) runs were scored for the loss of 20 wickets.

22 shots to 17 and thus qualified for the third round.

Other eliminations from the singles championship were H. W. Bradbury and L. F. Xavier.

Bradbury met his defeat at the hands of G. C. Moss who won by 22 shots to 13 in a match which went to 21 heads.

L. Luck by getting three shots in the last head of his match with Xavier obtained his victory by a narrow margin as up to that head the men had kept closely together.

T.-F. Stanton of the Talcott R.C. was to have met E. de Souza of the Club do Recreio this afternoon, but the latter had scratched, Stanton thus entering the third round.

Playing on the Kowloon Docks Recreation Club green, J. Watson defeated J. Smith in the Singles Championship by 29 to 19. Twenty-eight heads were played.

Playing on the Club do Recreio green, J. Watson defeated J. Smith in the Singles Championship by 29 to 19. Twenty-eight heads were played.

AUSTRALIA WIN KEEN DUEL TO AVOID FOLLOW-ON

LAST THREE BATSMEN SAVE THE DAY

THIRD TEST MATCH ENDS IN A DREARY DRAW.

London, July 10. In the short period of play before lunch, Walters and Sutcliffe opened England's second innings. They gathered 21 runs, keeping their wickets intact. The batting was at its slowest during this period. Walters had then scored 12 and Sutcliffe eight.

Play was resumed yesterday at Manchester, under a scorching sun and with only three thousand spectators present.

Kenton, England's reserve, took the field in place of M. Leyland, who had pulled a leg muscle.

A. G. Chipperfield and W. J. O'Reilly, the overnight not-outs, went out to resume Australia's innings, although it was stated the previous day that Chipperfield would not bat unless an emergency arose.

CHIPPERFIELD MAGNIFICENT.

Chipperfield was the first to go, being caught by Walters off Verity for 26. In view of his indisposition, his was a magnificent display when Australia were fighting to save the follow-on. He scored seven runs off Hammond's first over yesterday, and was altogether at the wickets for a hundred minutes. 454-20-9.

The excitement was intense when Wall joined O'Reilly. Facing Allen, Wall glanced the bowler to the leg boundary, and then only six runs more were required to save the follow-on.

O'Reilly then edged Verity to third man for two, and then lashed out at the same bowler, hitting the ball through the leg trap to the boundary to save the follow-on.

WALL RUN OUT.

When O'Reilly had scored 80, he lost Wall, who was run out by Keeton, fielding at deep square leg. Wall's contribution was 18, and the innings was thus brought to a close at 491 runs, of which 42 were extras.

Several catches were missed in the field, the principle culprits being Hammond and Hendren. Hopwood too was guilty of a mistake when he sent in a bad return, which should have had O'Reilly run out before the follow-on was saved.

Verity was the most successful bowler tried, taking four wickets at a cost of 78 runs, while Hammond took three for 111 runs. Clark took one wicket for 100 runs, and two were run out victims.

Play was resumed yesterday at Manchester, under a scorching sun and with only three thousand spectators present.

Wyatt's declaration at 4.15 p.m. was surprising as the batsmen did not go for the runs, and were not taking any risks, taking altogether 140 minutes to score 123 runs.

Walters reached the boundary on three occasions in scoring his 50, and Sutcliffe scored at a little faster rate, hitting nine boundaries and one six in his 60.

The Australians were left with a couple of hours' batting.

AUSTRALIA BATS.

Ponsford and Brown went to the wicket as Australia's opening batsmen. Before the partnership had gone far, Brown snicked a ball from Hammond into slips, where it was held by Allen, the batsman making his exit for a duck.

McCabe followed Brown, and the pair knocked up a total of 63, to the close of the game: Ponsford making 30, and McCabe 33, which with the extras gave the draw total.

Allen missed McCabe in square leg when the latter had scored 20, but there was no chance of a definite finish.

The Australians played safely and everyone was tired and bored after half an hour.

TEAM'S SICKNESS.

The swabs taken of the Australians' throats have proved negative, except Chipperfield's, whose is not shown to be definitely negative.

Chipperfield has been sent to hospital, where he will remain under observation with Kippax. The remainder of the team is going to Shefford.

The medical superintendent at the hospital stated that it would not be possible for 24 hours to tell whether the diphtheria germ was present in Chipperfield's swab. There was no definite, and other swabs will be being tested.—Reuter.

ACTION IN THE INTERPORT TENNIS TRIALS

Two doubles and singles match were played off on the S.I.T.A. courts last week for the Interport trials. Carson and Benavitch are shown above in action in their match against Khoo and Dui, while inset in Yui, who met Guy Cheng in the Singles.

INTERNATIONAL POLO.

English Team Beats American Visitors.

Ranleigh, July 10. England, represented by the Knaves, defeated the American Aurora team in a hard-fought polo match for the King's Coronation Cup to-day, by six goals to three.

Captain Roark gave a brilliant display and his three goals materially assisted the English team to victory. The English team was Capt. Pilkinson, Capt. Roark, Capt. Prior-Palmer and Major Harrison. The Americans were Messrs. Talbott, Boeske, Knox and Post—Reuter.

The matches between the Club de Recreio and the I.B.C. and between the U.S.R.C. and the Chinese Recreation Club "C" were cancelled on account of the bad state of the Courts.

SCHOOL AQUATICS.

St. Paul's College Wins From St. Stephen's.

ONE VICTORY EACH.

The second annual aquatic sports contest between the pupils of St. Paul's College and St. Stephen's College resulted in a victory for the former. Lau Ping-pui won three races for St. Paul's.

The conditions were not ideal as there was a strong current running. Despite this, the times for the 50 metres and the relay race were better than last year.

This is the second time these two schools have met. St. Stephen's having won last year.

The results were as follows:

50 metres.—1, Lau Ping-pui (St. Paul's); 2, Chan Lai-nam (St. Paul's); 3, Oei Eng-tsang (St. Stephen's). Time: 31.1 sec.

Sports Programme For The Melbourne Centenary

WORLD'S LEADING CELEBRITIES TO FOREGATHER NEXT WINTER

An elaborate programme has been drafted by the Melbourne Centenary Committee for the celebrations which are to be held in Australia over a period of six months, commencing on October 18 next, and Mr. Norman E. Brookes, the well-known Lawn Tennis player of pre-War days and chairman of the Sports Sub-Committee, in an interview in Hongkong yesterday, outlined the ambitious plans of the Melbourne authorities for the staging of the exhibitions.

What will be the most impressive ceremony during the Celebrations will also have an international flavour as it is expected that some 200 yachts from America, Honolulu, and possibly Asia, and, of course, the various Australian States, will assemble at Melbourne for the competition. The Henley Regatta will be a very fine show, according to Mr. Brookes, particularly as H. R. H. Prince Henry will be there. His Royal Highness will be received by the Lord Mayor (Sir George Smith), who, incidentally, is the son-in-law of Mr. Brookes.

Yachting and dinghy racing will also have an international flavour. The major part of the programme for the celebrations will be composed of sporting events and invitations have been issued to leading sportmen all over the world.

Racing will form an important part of the activities and as an added inducement to owners to enter their candidates the stakes for the meeting have been increased by nearly 100 per cent. The value of the Melbourne Cup, Australia's biggest race, will be $12,500, which is the largest prize ever offered for the event. The Victorian Derby will be worth $10,000.

The Lawn Tennis championships will commence on January 12 and it is confidently expected that all the leading players of the world will take part. Fred Perry, the Wimbledon Champion, will represent England together probably, with G. P. Hughes. Other noted visitors for the tennis championships will be Miss Dorothy Round, Miss N. M. Lyle, Miss E. M. Dearman (Great Britain), two leading American players, G. V. Kirby and Malcolm (South Africa), G. de Stefani (Italy), G. von Cramm (Germany), E. Maier (Spain) and R. B. Menzel (Czechoslovakia).

GOLF TOURNAMENTS.

A prize of £3,000 is being offered for the Open Golf championship, this being the biggest ever offered. For the amateurs a gold cup is to be presented to the winner. There will be other tournaments organised by clubs in Victoria and in the other States as well. A special invitation has been sent by Mr. Brookes to W. Lawson Little, the American who won a sensational victory over Sam Wallace in the final of the British Amateur Open Championship recently.

A Centenary Thousand-Mile bicycle race is being organised for a prize of $1,000. The event will take place in Victoria and will occupy the best part of a week.

There is also to be a special light car race of 2,500 miles to be held in Central Park in the City itself.

Teams from all the different Australian States, and also from New Zealand are to participate in the polo tournament.

What Mr. Brookes described as one of the most interesting sporting events will be the Inter-Empire Public School boys' Athletic meeting. Teams are being sent from Canada and New Zealand to compete against the best school boy teams from the various States of Australia.

BILLIARDS AND CHESS.

For the first time in the history of the country Australia will organise the Empire Professional Billiards Championship. Great Britain, who has hitherto conducted the championship, have agreed to let Australia run the tournament this year when it is hoped to have Walter Lindrum, Clark McConachy and Joe Davies competing.

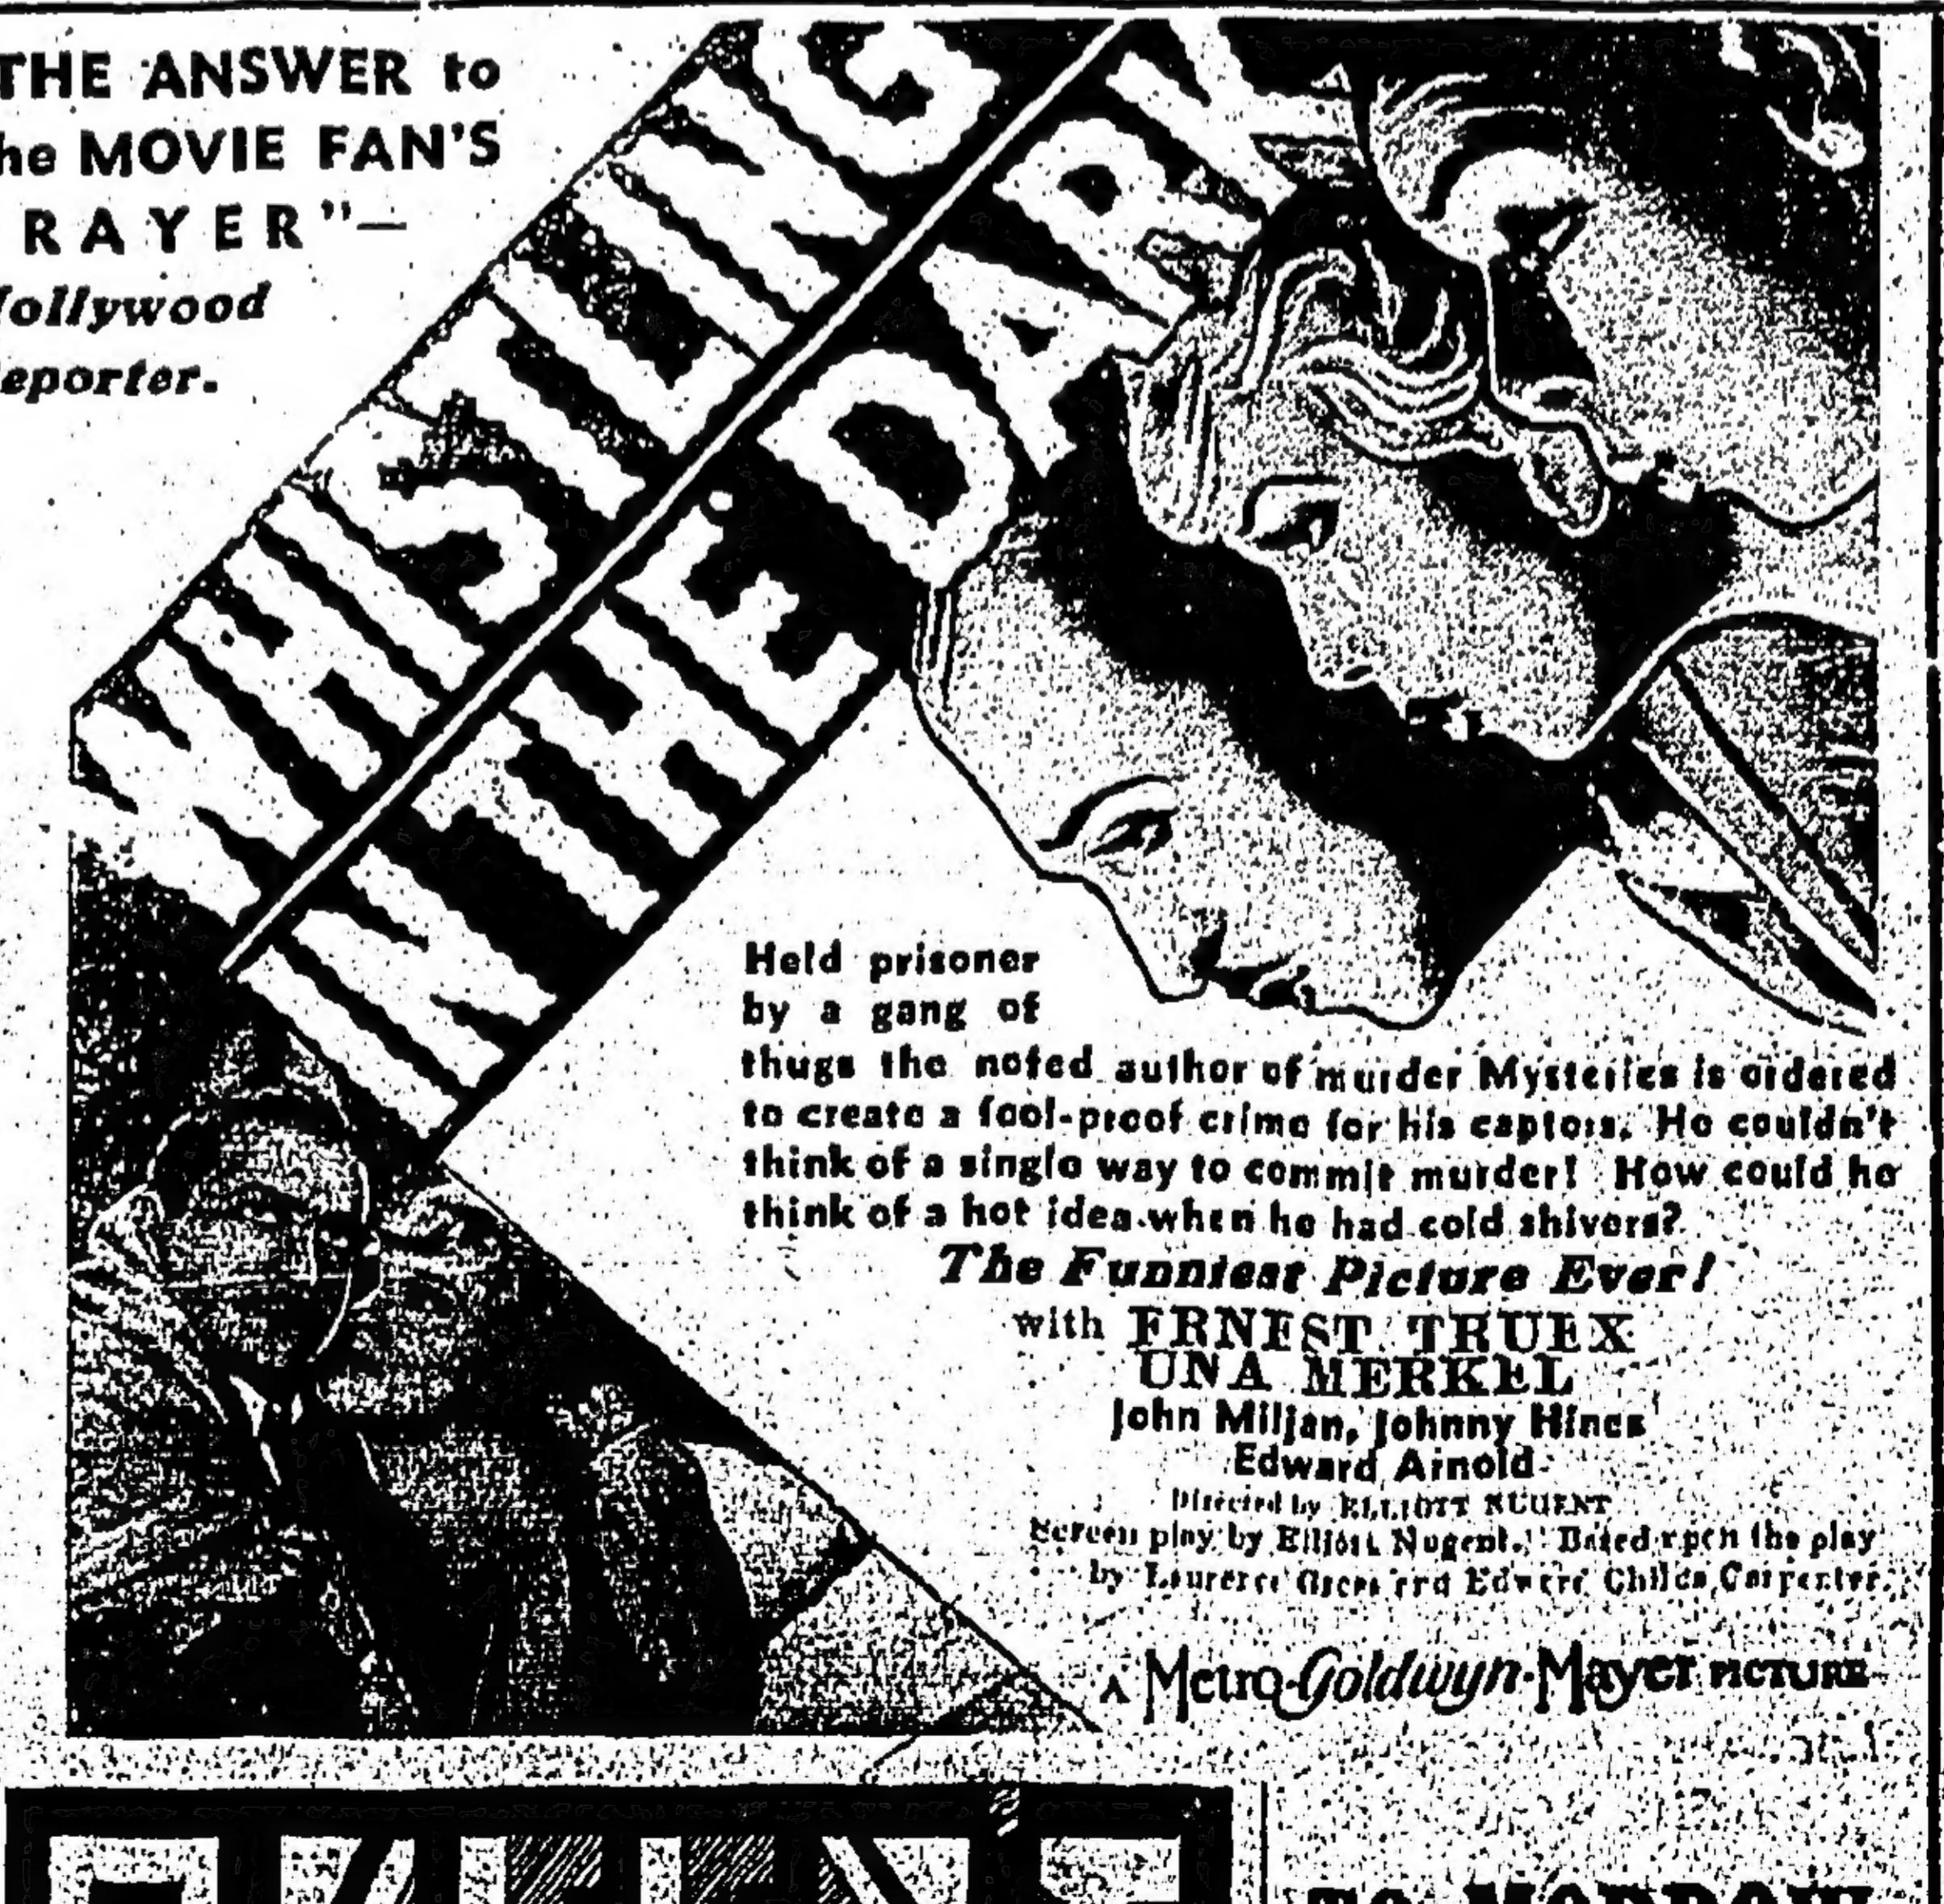

A women's sports meeting is to be held on the Melbourne Cricket Club ground, where 3,000 competitors are expected to parade.

A hike from Sydney to Melbourne is being organised while carriers will race between these two cities bearing messages to and from well-known personages.

It is expected that Dr. A. A. Alekhine, the world's chess champion, will take part in the chess congress.

Mr. Brookes, who is accompanied by his wife and two daughters, will be leaving for the north by President Coolidge on Saturday. On Monday Mr. Brookes had some golf at Shek O and to-day he will be given a game of tennis. Whilst in Manila he had a very enjoyable game with Arragon.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET UPWARD

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York Stock market was upward yesterday. The Wall Street Journal reported: The markets had an upward tendency and were more active, due to cheerful business news, including the Steel Corporation's output and favourable automobile production. Heavy Grain shipments are benefitting rails, which more than off-set the Columbia Gas Corporation's commission of its common dividend in order to conserve the cash position.

Homestake Mining reached the high level of $425.

The Curb market was upward. Bonds were irregular, although they featured the continued strength of United States Government issues, several reaching new high levels due to the Government's financial position being very strong.

Foreign stocks were mixed, while Germans ruled steady.

The Wheat market was up due to unfavourable foreign crop reports, together with growing public interest.

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz's New York office report:

Stocks: Prices again revealed an inclination to advance, in spite of the lack of news, and the market appears to be well bought. Business done: 650,000 shares. Grain: High temperatures over the Far West are spreading fast and it looks like being another hot spell. The whole outlook favours higher prices for both Wheat and Corn. Cotton: The market was firm on the higher Liverpool advices and the continued unfavourable weather in the West. There was good demand from Spot Houses, while Southern offerings were of a comparatively smaller volume. Rubber: The market was firm reflecting the strength of the primary markets and the scarcity of offerings in the East. There was some good Trade demand here, while in London there was moderate realising on the advance, but sellers were not aggressive. Sugar: Prices are fully steady but the market is dull and featureless.

walls and dark old mahogany, was a pleasant setting for the untroubled meal.

"She's restless," she told him. "She's like me, some time back—before I really found myself."

Tom's ready laugh rang out. She was so solemn about it.

"So you've done that, have you? Nobody would ever guess. I thought you were still groping."

"Don't make fun of me, darling, I'm a better wife than I used to be."

He smiled at her, suddenly serious. "You were always," he told her, "everything a man could wish."

They were alone with the coffee things now. Annie was muttering to herself in the kitchen, the child asleep in his big room under the eaves. The blue haze of twilight lingered.

Gypsy tilted the silver coffee pot; filled his cup again. It seemed to her the night pressed close to unfold her happiness in this house, with her man, her child. Marriage was the great adventure—no doubt about it. Life might roam the high seas, might taste romance in far places, but she would never know anything surer and sweeter than this. She would never see any lovelier lights than the lights of home.

suit if you can. My hand contains about two probable entries."

However, when your partner opens the bidding in third position and you respond with one no trump, you are showing a better hand than if you had responded to first or second hand bid. In other words, when your partner makes a club or a diamond bid third hand, and you respond with one no trump, you know that you may be pushing him into the two zone, so you should have at least an ace, a king, and a queen in your hand, in different suits.

The Play

West's opening lead is the queen of spades, and when it holds, the jack of spades is continued, which South wins with the king.

The entire play of the hand depends on how South plays the hearts. If he lead the jack of hearts, and West holds a heart, they may be able to defeat the contract.

The proper play is to lead a small heart and finesse the queen. A small diamond is returned and the jack is finessed.

Another heart is played, West plays low, and the declarer goes right up with the ace in dummy. He leads back another diamond, finessing the queen.

Now, a small club is played and West must split his honours, so he puts in the jack and the trick is won in dummy with the ace. A diamond is returned and won by the declarer with the ace.

West now must make a discard, and the only discard that he can make is the six of spades. To drop a heart or a club would cost him tricks.

The declarer now leads the jack of hearts, throwing West in the lead with the king, and all West can do is to cash his ace and ten of spades and he must then lead

VIRTUAL END OF O.G.P.U.

"HOME SECRETARY" IN RUSSIA

YOUNG OFFICIAL APPOINTED

Moscow, July 10.
An important change in internal administration in Soviet Russia was finally authorised to-day.

A decree has been issued laying down the composition of the new Commissariat for Home Affairs, which is taking over the extraordinary judicial functions of the O.G.P.U., the secret political police.

The new Home Secretary will also be responsible for safeguarding revolutionary order and the security of the State, the guarding of public property and of the frontier and for the registration of the civil acts of the State.

The Judicial Collegium of the O.G.P.U. which until now has been empowered to sentence an accused to be shot without an open trial is now dissolved.

OPEN TRIALS.

Crimes affecting the security of the State will be tried in the Supreme Court.

Genrich Yagoda, a rising young official, has been appointed first People's Commissar for Home Affairs.

Settlement of this appointment alone has delayed putting the proposal into operation before now.
It is stated that the decree does not imply that the O.G.P.U. has been disbanded, but that the Soviet Government feels that its power being established, a milder means of protecting the State is possible.—Reuter.

CANARY IS. REVOLT

FIVE SENTENCED

VILLAGERS TRIED
BY MILITARY

Tenerife, July 10.
The serious outbreak in the Canary Islands last year when a revolutionary strike occurred in a village on one of the islands, the Spanish authorities being defied for some considerable time, had a sequel to-day.

Five of the alleged ringleaders in the revolt were found guilty by court-martial and sentence of death was passed.

Ten other men of the village, who were also tried by the same court, were sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from one to twenty years.

The sentences are subject to confirmation by the Madrid Government.

It may be recalled that two civil guards were killed by the islanders in the course of the disturbances.—

stated that M. Yagoda was formerly

CHINESE CHARGED WITH MURDER

REMAND TILL
MONDAY

As a sequel to the recent outrage in which five British children were thrown into the nullah near the lower Peak tram terminus, a Chinese has been charged at the Central Magistracy with the murder of Michael Pine, the lad who succumbed in hospital to his injuries.

The accused, who was picked out of the nullah at the same time that four of the children were rescued, has been in hospital since. For a time, he was unable to make any coherent statement, and his condition, resulting from a broken thigh and other injuries, was such that he could not be formally charged.

He has, however, now sufficiently recovered to be able to appear in Court, before Mr. Macfayden.

Aged 28 years, and described as unemployed, the accused is Ng
Loi-yuen, alias Ng Yick-lan, alias Ng Yick-san, formerly residing at the premises of the Swatow Drawn Work Co.

The charge against him was that he did wilfully murder Michael Pine on June 22.

On the application of Detective Inspector O'Donovan, the accused has been remanded on police custody until Monday, July 16.
